The Churches Report
Not So Very Crazy
Clergy Good Fighters
What Do We Need?

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

THE FEDERAL Council of Churches, having investigated the "success of prohibition," reports "yes and no." There is improvement in the homes, in comfort, larger savings bank deposits.

But that is offset by a constantly increasing lack of respect for the law.

The church sees less public drunkenness but deplores increased whiskey drinking among young people. A wise conclusion reached by the churches is that prohibition is still on trial and public opinion must decide the issue.

ADMIRAL MOFFETT, discussing Colonel Mitchell in his accusation in connection with our incompetent air forces, goes so far as to suggest that Colonel Mitchell is "of unsound mind."

Colonel Mitchell, however, didn't send the Shenandoah through the storm belt to be ripped to pieces, ignoring the protests of the Shenandoah's commander.

And Colonel Mitchell didn't send a seaplane "hopping" from California to Hawaii without enough gasoline to make the hop.

THERE ARE in our aircraft management several minds a good deal more unsound than Colonel Mitchell's mind.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, fortunately, is not depressed concerning the situation, nor is he carried off his feet by talk about "saving the honor of the navy." What the President wants is to save the lives of American fliers. And he intends to have in Congress, where it should be held, an investigation that will satisfy the public.

REV. DR. FOSDICK in Geneva says the church must end war.

But the church can't end war. A human institution, although operating under Divine approval, shares the impulses of humanity. The church has always led in war, from the days of the pagan prophets to the days of the holy men who preached and urged the great Crusades with their gigantic massacres and on to the earnest preachers stimulated, volunteering and hard-fighting, in the late big war.

What does the world need? Thousands of preachers, standing on the shore of time and peering into eternity with the strong authority that their vocation gives them, try to answer the question.

HERE ARE a few answers made in the pulpits of one city Sunday:

The Rev. Henry Howard: "The Bible is now on the shelf, not enough family prayers. Not enough religion in schools—time proves it."

REV. C. EVERETT WAGNER, Methodist Episcopal: "Too much preaching of hell fire. Too much parading of wickedness instead of talking about goodness. Too much tempting listeners by describing in detail the things the wicked do."

Rev. Dr. Sookman: "Too much shifting about from place to place. Too much roaming. The people becoming nomadic can't settle down."

REV. DR. S. E. YOUNG says voters neglect their duty. They could make this republic

HUNDREDS OF CHINESE TO BE DEPORTED BY U.S.; ARRESTS START IN HUB

Peace has been signed by the Chinese Tongs, and the hatchetmen have put their weapons away, but the white man's law that the Tong chiefs spurned when they launched a war in which a dozen were killed and a score were wounded is not to be so easily satisfied.

Hundreds of them, dwelling without the sanction of the law in the Chinatowns of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, are to be deported as fast as ships can be found to carry them away.

Five hundred were rounded up today in a huge New York raid which made the very rats in Pell and Mott streets squeal.

Several were taken into custody in Boston by Inspector Jensen of the immigration service—among them men going the names of Hip Chong and Long Lee. They will be given hearings. If they have not the proper papers they will be sent home.

Chinatown in Boston is said by those who know a little something about it to be alive with men who have no right to be here, men smuggled in, men who came in from Chinese ships years ago on "thirty-day leave," men who are professional

ALL NIGHT GRIND IN BIBLE TEST

Above, some of the relay readers in Boston's unique Bible "Marathon," resting in the vestry of the Seventh Day Adventist Temple as others take up the strenuous task of reading the Good Book.

TOP BIBLE TIME BY 17 HOURS

Boston's "Bible Marathon" passed the half-way marker today, seventeen hours ahead of the record and twelve hours ahead of the schedule that had been mapped out for the non-stop reading.

As the clocks throughout the Hub clicked 12:30 the eighth verse of the 108th Psalm was being droned off.

SOCIETY WOMEN FOUND AMONG DRUG VICTIMS OF SHEIK-AIDED RING

Worcester, Sept. 15.—In a desperate stand against the slinking forces of the drug ring, which has fastened on the youth of this city, guards have been posted about the Commercial High School, it was learned today.

Dark corners and nooks, stairways, entrances and exits are all carefully watched to protect the 2,200 boy and girl students from the insidious advances of the dope pedlars, according to Principal Andrews.

In all seventeen stations about the building are maintained, and during recess hours instructors are on duty about the grounds, while even telephone calls are censored.

Principal Andrews said to the Boston Evening American that while he knew of no specific case of drug addiction among students, he was leaving no stone unturned to protect them from evil.

At the same time local authorities were pushing ahead their crusade against the drug traffic, the first fruits of which was the arrest of five men, two prominent physicians and three alleged pedlars.

SCHOOLS ARE GUARDED.

One of the physicians, Dr. Walter C. Harris of Middlebury street, and Harry Marse, colored, of Market street, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin H. Crandall. Narcotic Agent George B. Cofill charged Dr. Harris with illegal sales of nineteen morphine sulphate tablets on September 5, thirty tab-

JUDGE AHERN WINS FIGHT FOR DAUGHTER

Winifred Ahern, the five-year-old daughter of Judge Timothy J. Ahern of the Roxbury District Court, is to be turned over to him immediately by order of Judge Wait of the Supreme Court.

Judge Wait signed a writ of habeas corpus today ordering Josephine, Mary and John Cavanagh of North Scituate and Boston to deliver the little girl without further parley.

The order is only temporary, for at the end of the month the child is to be produced in court. If Judge Wait feels that the change of custody has not been harmful he will make it permanent.

The Cavanaghs are the sisters and brother of Judge Ahern's first wife.

Winifred has been in their custody since her mother died, which was shortly after the girl was born. Judge Ahern recently married again.

Some time ago he decided to bring his daughter into his own home. Negotiations with the Cavanaghs not proceeding as he wished, he sought a writ of habeas corpus.

The Cavanaghs have maintained that they do not claim permanent custody of Winifred, but have had her since she was born, and fear a sudden transfer to her father's home would be harmful to her health.

lets on Sept. 12 and thirty-six tablets each on Sept. 3, 4, 5 and 8. The defendant pleaded not guilty and was held in $3,000 for a hearing on September 21.

Marcus was charged with possessing and selling on Sept. 8 ten decks of cocaine and on Sept. 12 fifteen decks of cocaine. He was also held in $2,000 for a hearing on Sept. 23, after pleading not guilty. Both waived the reading of the charges. Marcus was unable to obtain bail.

Referring to the guards in the Commercial High School, placed after revelations were made by the police that high school students were among youthful victims of the drug ring, Principal Andrews said:

"We are watching and taking every precaution that we know to guard against any possible introduction of drugs into the school building.

"Specifically I know of no cases, nor have I any definite way of fighting the drug if I were able to locate the addicts among my boys and girls, but I am doing everything I know to forestall and prevent its use in the school building while the pupils are under my care.

WILL FIGHT DRUG RING.

"During the recess hours I have placed instructors at the four corners of the grounds, and no outsider is permitted to approach a student during school hours, communicate with him or pass him any article or package. Even telephone and telegraph messages received by a pupil during school hours are turned over to the home authorities and delivered at that end.

"These rigid precautions have been in effect for some time. If drug addiction is present among the 2,200 pupils I have no definite way of ascertaining it or fighting it except by enforcing the strictest and most rigid rules to prevent any traffic in the drug.

"As a matter of fact there are 15,000 boys and girls of high school age in the city and only 5,000 of them attend the Worcester high schools.

"Among the 10,00 boys and girls of high school age, it is not fair to pick out the high school pupils as drug addicts and place the responsibility of their acts upon the school authorities.

"If there is any drug traffic at present among our high school pupils we can do nothing but maintain careful watch and fight it in that way.

Tomorrow Dr. Bryant is to be arraigned in local District Court for violation of the State narcotic laws, together with one other man. A third was arraigned yesterday.

Hourly new reports come into police headquarters and the quarters of the Federal narcotic agents, showing the far-reaching tentacles of the drug ring and the cunning manner in which new customers were supplied by inoculating schoolgirls and boys with the "yen."

Dapper, good-looking young men were imported from Boston and New York, and they made the local dance halls their objectives. From these it was an easy matter for them to worm their ways into the dances of high school fraternities and sororities.

And here they did their work. A girl tired from long hours of dancing would be urged in the early morning to try "one of these pills. They'll jazz you up so you can dance all night and never feel tired.

POLICE AMAZED.

The girl, all unconscious of the harm that loomed, would try the stuff, would like the exhilarating effect, would revers to it again, and then would find that she must have it, and she would be introduced to one of the pedlars. Then she was a regular customer, she had the "yen."

The drug curse, according to the findings of the police and Federal men who have been investigating Worcester for months, has touched upon all classes of society. The pedlars find their customers among the mill workers and the socially elect alike.

The police were amazed at the long line of prescription seekers that formed in the office of one of the accused physicians. Not only the length of the line, but the variety it showed amazed them. There were the regular "hop-heads" who had long been known.

But there were poor girls, eking out the money for a "shot" from a scanty wage. There were fashionably dressed women to whom the cost meant nothing as long as they got their "dum" and appeased the insatiate "yen." There were boys and girls who hurried to the doctor's office when their classmates were playing golf or tennis or baseball or football.

TAXED $5 A PRESCRIPTION.

Two features combined to bring about the investigation and the subsequent expose of conditions that the majority of Worcester folk never dreamed existed.

First, that long line of addicts and near-addicts at the office of one of the physicians, where, according to the police, they could get prescriptions for narcotics at $5.

Then the frantic complaint of a mother who said that her son had been led into drug addiction and had become a criminal, half through the loss of character induced by the drug, half by the necessity for money with which to satisfy the craving. The heart-broken mother was Mrs. Elizabeth Donaldson of No. 24 Belmont street.

HONOR AIR CASTAWAYS AT HONOLULU LUNCHEON

Honolulu, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Commander John Rodgers and his valiant crew of rescued aviators today approached a community luncheon under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce to receive added honors from this mid-Pacific community. Governor W. R. Farrington was to present each of the birdmen with a gold watch, suitably engraved. The Governor is acting for the Honolulu chapter of the National Aeronautical Society, of which he is president. "Captain John" and his flying mates leave for the mainland Friday.

COURTHOUSE IS LOOTED; JAIL TRUSTIES BLAMED

Worcester, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Thieves broke into the courthouse here and stole $3.95 in telephone call receipts and two revolvers, one the property of Registerer of Deeds Chester S. Bavis, the other belonging to the janitor. It is believed "trusties" from the county jail working about the building while serving sentences effected the break.

RECORD DUE TO FALL IN BIBLE MARATHON

the exact half-way mark in the Good Book, and when this point was reached, 27¼ hours after the start of the Marathon, 603 pages had been covered and 156,846 words uttered.

Half an hour later the afternoon shift, readers working from 1 to 5 p. m., came on and took up the task. They were Mrs. Lucretia Crosby of Brookline, Miss Jennie Bailey of Boston, Mrs. George Briggs of Newton, Mrs. A. D. Sennet of Somerville, Miss Harriet Holloway and Miss Mary Welsh of Brookline.

MANY VOLUNTEER AID.

A feature of today's "spell" of reading was the arrival of visitors from other churches and several asked to be allowed to read one chapter, a request that was granted.

Various other spectators dropped in from time to time at the Seventh Day Adventist Temple, where the Marathon, under direction of the Rev. Robert S. Price, is being conducted, and all listened intently.

The finishing time is now set for between 9 p. m. and midnight tomorrow, when a total of forty readers will have taken part.

The wearied night shift that had gained most of the ground was relieved at 9 a. m. today, twenty-four hours after the start of the contest.

"IRON MAN" BOBS UP.

An hour later, when the morning shift had settled down to its task, and when the readers were in the 16th Psalm, 300,000 words had been covered, or a total of 580 pages.

The "iron man" of the reading group came to light today when Alfonso Mimyo, Watertown contractor, who had done his full share of reading during the night, was relieved and departed—to go to work.

Hourly men have flocked to the church on Warren avenue, South End, during the day since the reading started yesterday morning, but the picture presented in the small hours of the morning is the strangest of all.

Today the room appeared to be deserted save for the voice of the reader which droned on and on, enunciating each word clearly and distinctly, but obviously trying for speed.

In one corner were the cots where were sleeping the "relief readers," ready to take up their self-imposed task at the signal. Just at the back of the reader stood the first relief reader, following the text with the real reader, and prepared to step in at a moment's notice.

In a far corner a policeman listened more or less attentively, and as the sound of market wagons and milk teams echoed through the deserted church itself one woman stepped in, evidently making an early morning pilgrimage on her way to work.

HALFWAY MARK AT NOON.

Four men and two women had read through the night.

At 7 o'clock today the reader had reached the eighth chapter of Isaiah. The readers admit that their hardest work came after 1 a. m., when 33 pages of the First Chronicles were read in one and one-half hours.

It has been proved that men are faster readers than women. The women require three minutes to read a page, while the men are from 20 to 30 seconds faster.

The fastest reader has proved to be Mrs. C. E. Hooper, who has made an average of one page and one-half in two minutes 36 seconds. She read from midnight until 3 a. m. today.

Other readers during the night were: Rev. Fries, C. H. Crocker, Mrs. H. Landry, while those who started at 9 this morning were Mrs. E. Norton, Miss Mary Welsh and Miss Harriett Hollaway and Mrs. A. Manchester.

"PAR EXCELLENCE" GETS FOUR MONTHS IN JAIL

Ernest "Dutch" Henry of Chelsea, one of the men arrested in connection with the Chelsea rum conspiracy, pleaded guilty in Federal District Court today to a single sale of liquor to a Federal officer. He was sentenced to four months at hard labor in Plymouth Jail.

It was an unusually heavy sentence on a first conviction, but before it was passed Assistant District Attorney Elihu D. Stone had said to Judge Morton he should take into consideration Henry "was a bootlegger par excellence."

NEWARK POLICEMAN SHOOTS WOMAN AND SELF

Newark, N. J., Sept. 15 (I.N.S.).—Anthony Sheridan, Newark policeman, shot and wounded Mrs. Madeline Clearwater and then shot himself at the woman's home early today. Mrs. Clearwater and Sheridan were reported in a critical condition.

criminals and could never get by even the simplest immigration test.

Out of the 500 arrested in New York, 134 were marked for deportation immediately and will be on their way back to Shanghai and other cities of the Republic sometimes called celestial within a day or two.

Others are being held in various jails in New York for questioning.

WHITE "WIVES" APPEAL.

Many of them were discovered living with white women, known for convention's sake as their wives. It is said, a condition which can be duplicated in any Chinatown in the country.

These women, in the main creatures of the underworld, even before they crossed the color line, went to headquarters to plead for their protectors, and in some instances were held themselves.

The tong peace was signed with one eye on the police, and with a keen sense for the drama.

Tong leaders in Boston were disturbed and startled today by word that the law of the United States was not ready to cry quits and forgive all.

The truce was signed at midnight in the offices of Ziang Ling Chang, Chinese consul-general in New York.

Ancient Chinese symbolism was employed, a chicken being killed with a hatchet to signify that the peace was to be lasting; which other truces between the On Leongs and the Hip Sings have not been.

Members of the Chinese Benevolent Association and prominent merchants were in the room when the super-leaders of the two great Chinese societies put their signatures to the peace agreement. So was Acting Captain John Archipoli of the Ching Squad of New York, who was there to see to it that the truce went through as advertised.

For several hours the conferees were deadlocked over the question of exchanging members.

This and other trivial differences helped to start the war which startled the Chinatowns of cities as widely separated as Boston and St. Louis.

Acting Captain Archipoli, who has a way with him that Chinese understand, and to whom a gang is a gang, even when it calls itself a tong, hinted that failure to reach an agreement would be followed by most unpleasant circumstances.

GET STORM WARNINGS.

He said that the United States had had all the Chinese it cared to, that it could stand for a while and the tong chiefs would be held personally responsible for a continuation of bloodshed.

Immediately truce was signed, telegrams were sent to Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Chicago, Baltimore, the Jersey cities and wherever there are considerable colonies of Orientals.

Local chiefs were instructed to stop warfare immediately and told that letters followed outlining the terms of peace.

The United States district attorney at New York said today that big men in the tongs asked him if the deportation move would be called off if they would agree to stop the strife.

OVERTURE SCORNED.

He scorned the overture, and told them that he would not rest while there was a single Chinese illegally in the country.

In Boston today there were mysterious comings and goings. The quietude of the last few days seemed forgotten. Leaders of the Hip Sings and the On Leongs seemed concerned only over the new offensive of that formidable tong known as the government of the United States to cleanse the cities of the East of criminals from the slums of distant cities of the Orient.

Chicago Chinese Shot; Disclaims Tong War

Chicago, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Two would-be assassins shot Mark Jim Green, a Chinese laundryman, twice today, and escaped, leaving their victim disclaiming membership in either of the warring Tongs, on Leong and Hip Sing, which effected a piece agreement in New York. Fond said he believed his assailants were friends of a Chinese with whom he had quarrelled.

AMUNDSEN'S NEXT START WILL BE FROM ROME

London, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Westminster Gazette from Oslo, Norway, says the next expedition of Roald Amundsen toward the North Pole, which will be undertaken in an airship he bought in Italy, will start from Rome next Spring. The route will be by way of Fulham, England Trondhiem, Norway, and King's Bay, Spitzbergen.

CONSTABLE SHOOTS ONE, NABS TWO, IN LOOTING

Seymour, Ct., Sept 15 (A.P.).—While he is alleged to have been attempting to remove several rolls of cloth from a storehouse of the Kerite Insulated Wire and Cable Company today, Samuel Fargenski, aged fifty, was shot through the head by a constable and is not expected to recover. Two others were arrested.

$2,000 JEWEL ROBBERY IN QUINCY

Jewelry valued at $2,000 was stolen from the store of Charles Lamb of Hancock street, Quincy, today, shortly before nine houses in the Merrymount section were broken into and ransacked.

Entrance to the Lamb jewelry store was effected by breaking a front window, the thieves getting away with two trays of diamond rings and brooches. The empty trays were found about half a mile away.

In the houses entered the thieves, believed to be travelling in a gang, obtained a total of less than $100 in money, and a small amount of jewelry.

The places entered were the homes of James J. Jones, No. 23 Pilgrim boulevard; Charles Bahr, No. 57 Fountain road; Charles Howard, Homer street; Howard Smith, No. 67 Narragansett road; William W. DeWolfe, No. 30 Chickatowbut road; Thurston Beausang, No. 25 Chickatowbut road; John Johnson, No. 93 Narragansett road; Edward Cummings, No. 57 Narragansett road, and W. J. HUNTED 6 DAYS, ADMITS FIRING DEATH SHOT

Houlton, Me., Sept. 15.—Aroostook county officials today denied the story that has been making the rounds here that James Doherty, 42, held in connection with the death of Joe Deveau on September 8, had attempted suicide.

Doherty was arrested after a six-day hunt in a 26,000-acre wood, and apparently in the best of spirits when lodged in the jail here.

Doherty was taken from a Massachusetts orphan asylum when he was a young man, and has been living with Michael Rugan, at Littleton, Me. It is said that he has relatives in Massachusetts.

Although he has not retained counsel to represent him in court, it is believed that he will be bound over to the Aroostook county grand jury, and at that time will have adequate counsel to fight for him. Doherty denied murdering Deveau, but did tell the authorities that he did fire a shot, but did not mean to hit anyone.

BARE STABBING

rejoins that her husband was himself the stabber.

Mrs. Barry will appear to press a petition to have her husband placed under bonds to keep the peace.

Mrs. Barry contends that she did not stab her husband, that she was not at home when the stabbing took place, and she charges that her husband went "on a wild rampage" because she had instituted divorce proceedings against him, wrecking twenty-three windows in their home at No. 581 Shirley street, Winthrop.

After Barry's wounds were dressed at the Winthrop Community Hospital where he had been taken in time to prevent his suffering seriously from loss of blood, he told his story of the alleged stabbing.

His said he had let himself into the house shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning, and he had hardly set foot inside the door when his wife, in a furious frenzy, attacked him with the knife.

The unexpected attack forced the husband to flee the house, he said, but once on the outside he determined to make an entrance.

He seized a timber in the front yard, he said, and attempted to batter in the door, but his wife, according to his story, had barricaded the door on the inside and he could not force it.

Though he shouted to his wife, he said, that he would bleed to death on the street if she did not let him in she would not open the door. Finally he gave up the attempt to make entrance, and enlisted the aid of a driver of a truck and this man drove him to the Community Hospital.

Mrs. Barry refused to comment upon the stabbing except to deny that she had been at home.

HYLAN-WALKER BOUT IN HANDS OF VOTERS

cautions in the city's history have been taken to insure an honest count of the ballots.

As the hour for the opening of the polling places drew near, local interest, for five weeks whipped to fever heat, became intensified. The weather was cloudy and threatening early, but later in the forenoon the sun shone brightly.

EVEN SPEECHES TODAY.

Leading candidates and their supporters kept up their aggressive warfare until the very end. Speeches were made in all the boroughs of New York last night and early today.

The high light of this campaign has been the bitter, vituperative fight between Mayor John F. Hylan, seeking Democratic renomination, and State Senator James J. Walker, his opponent. The electorate has been thrilled for weeks by the great battle of oratory. Spice and color was added by Governor "Al" Smith of New York injecting himself into the campaign as a supporter of his friend, "Jimmy" Walker.

Governor Smith does not attempt to disguise that a victory for Mayor Hylan will have a reflex action on his popularity in New York City and State.

SMITH FOUGHT HARDER.

The Governor turned all his guns on Hylan during the campaign. He fought as hard for Walker, perhaps harder, than he did in any other campaign he engaged in in New York State.

Eleventh hour claims of victory were made today by leaders in both the Hylan and Walker camps. Some of Walker's cohorts predicted he would win by as high as 100,000 majority. Hylan's managers were more modest.

Wall street odds, published in the anti-Hylan press, were as high as 3 to 1 Walker would win. Hylan personally declared these odds to be "just fake".

The Hylan-Walker fight forced into the background the battle for Republican nomination for mayor, a three-cornered contest between Frank D. Waterman, manufacturer of fountain pens; John J. Lyons, formerly secretary of State; and William M. Bennett. Betting odds favor Waterman, who is backed by the regular Republican organization.

Walker adherents already have begun to indicate fear of inability to win in November even if Walker wins today. For days they have been demanding to know from Hylan what he will do if defeated. Hylan has deigned to make reply.

BENNETT'S RING YET WORN

Actor Refuses to eBlieve Mrs. Vanderbilt's Sister Will Not Wed Him

San Francisco, Sept. 15 (A. P.).—The Examiner today says Richard Bennett, the actor, now here, replied to the London statement credited to Lord Furness, in which Lord Furness said Thelma Morgan Converse had decided not to marry Bennett or himself.

Mrs. Converse, a twin sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, is in Europe divorcing Jimmy Converse, Jr., Newport society man.

"I won't believe that Thelma has turned me down until she sends me the beautiful $5,000 ring I have her," the Examiner quotes Bennett as saying.

"What good would a lord do her anyhow? For myself, I have climbed to the top of the ladder in the hardest of all professions. I'm the father of two of the world's most beautiful girls. They are happy and have a beautiful mother. Let Lord Furness or some other lord approach that record if he will."

Bennett was recently divorced from Adrienne Morrison in New York.

RADIO BROADCASTING MAY BE CURTAILED

Washington, Sept. 15 (I.N.S.).—Radio broadcasting stations may be barred from the air unless they offer a real public service to the listeners, Department of Commerce officials announced today.

In the view of Secretary Hoover stations should establish a real usefulness to the listener if they are to be granted licenses to operate.

Hoovers said this question probably would be one of the outstanding problems to come before the national radio conference, to be called soon.

With a special appropriation of $125,000 virtually assured, Secretary Hoover is laying plans for a comprehensive radio survey, which officials believe will greatly improve reception over the jumbled confusion of last Winter.

COURT FREES AMBULANCE DRIVER IN SPEEDING CASE

Declaring an ambulance on an emergency call has the right-of-way, Judge William J. Day in South Boston court today found Herbert Sanford, No. 24 Chestnut avenue, Jamaica Plain, not guilty of driving so as to endanger the lives of the public. Sanford was the driver of a public buildings ambulance wrecked when it was driven into a patrol box in an effort to avoid striking several small children, one in a baby carriage. Although the ambulance struck the carriage the baby was not hurt. Police of the Athens street station summoned Sanford. Judge Day said the police cleared the way for the fire apparatus and he thought they should do likewise for an ambulance.

$100,000 SPRINGFIELD HALL TO BE DEDICATED

Springfield, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—The formal dedication of the $100,000 Junior Achievement Hall at the Eastern States Exposition grounds will take place Monday, when the building, the gift of Horace A. Moses, will be turned over to the Eastern States League to be devoted to the training of junior achievement club leaders. Henry D. Sharpe of Providence, R. I., vice president of the league, will preside and the governors of several states are expected to attend.

MAFALDA'S GOWN OF ITALIAN CREATION

Racconigi, Italy, Sept. 15.—Princess Mafalda has her wedding gown—a glorious creation in white satin and the handiwork of Italian modistes. The princess and her sisters and members of the Royal Household spent much time in admiring the gown, which they are said to agree is just as chic as any creation which might have come from the shops of European centres which have greater reputation for style than the Italian shops. Decorafore are still busy in the great hall of Racionigi Palace, where the civil ceremony will be performed.

REVERE BEAUTY GIVES PRIZE WINNING CODE

PAULINE GAULIN, Revere mermaid, who won the first prize in the Boston Evening American's grand bathing beauty contest, has written for this paper the story of how she fitted herself to win the honors.

Miss Gaulin, who is a real bathing beauty, and intends to attempt to swim the English Channel, has trained faithfully for years with the object of obtaining a place behind the footlights. Her story follows:

By PAULINE GAULIN

Winning a beauty prize is adding so much power to one's possessions. Beauty spells power and success.

My breakfast usually consists of a fruit, eggs and toast and coffee. At lunch I have only a sandwich and coffee. At night I have my big meal. Meat, vegetables, plenty of bread, soup and tea make up that meal.

MY TEN COMMANDMENTS.

These are my ten commandments for beauty:

1. Don't keep late hours.
2. Don't dance your head, heart and figure away.
3. Don't smoke.
4. Don't drink. Let others be good fellows.
5. Eat regularly and only those foods which are nutritious. Satisfy your being but don't be a glutton. No sweets!
6. Exercise. Do any form of athletics, but do something, even if it is only walking.
7. No petting parties, excessive or too demanding. A little loving, however, never harmed anyone.
8. Get plenty of sleep. Sleep is to one's nerves what a lullaby is to a baby, soothing and comforting.
9. Don't cling like a vine. Walk erect. Be a goddess even if it kills you. Don't slouch.
10. Don't be afraid to work. Keep your mind well occupied with healthy activity.

And the man I some day hope to marry must also be a healthy and husky man. Herculean but not a Rudolph Valentino. Give me the tall and dark man and you can leave the Valentino part out. He must be a one-man workman if he hopes to hold on to me.

I won beauty prizes before and now the first prize in the Boston Evening American contest gives me the privilege to advise other girls on the how and why of it. Soap and water is the best for the skin. I don't use any creams either in the morning or at night. Let nature take its own course.

ICE WATER FOR FACE.

When I arise I wash my face thoroughly with warm water, not hot, but tepid, then rinse with ice water and, if handy, rub the face with a piece of ice.

At night before retiring I go through the same process, always keeping the skin thoroughly clean. I bathe daily in the ocean and in the tub. A cold bath in the morning, a hot bath at night has wonderful reducing powers.

I love the footlights. I adore the vigorous training so necessary to keep in the company.

ILLEGAL SURGERY COUNT AGAINST SALEM BARBER

Salem, Sept. 15.—Leo Leger, 30, barber, of No. 63 Palmer street, pleaded not guilt in district court today to assisting to procure illegal surgery.

The victim, Justine Dion, 24, of the same address, is reported dying at the Salem Hospital.

Leger, who was arrested today, was held in $500 for a hearing in one week.

OPEN HEARING ON DUANE INJUNCTION

The hearing on the application of former Mayor Patrick J. Duane for an injunction to prevent the city of Waltham from erecting a new city hall on the common opened in Middlesex Superior Court, before Judge Dubuque today. The petitioners allege the land comprising the common was deeded to the city for park purposes only.

CARDINAL FINDS COOLIDGE IS NO 'SILENT MAN'

Washington, Sept. 15.—"If anyone thinks President Coolidge can't talk, simply because he isn't doing it all the time, that person is mistaken. President Coolidge knows when to talk and how."

That was one of a number of highly complimentary things said of the President by Cardinal O'Connell, in an interview granted here. The Boston prelate is here for the meeting of the trustees of teh Catholic University of America.

"Everywhere it is evident that the President has won the confidence of the people," he said.

"His modesty in point of view, his soberness of speech, his calm and his poise have brought him the trust of the citizens without regard to party.

"I consider we all are fortunate to have at our head a man so quietly, earnestly and resolutely devoted to the interests of us all."

The Cardinal will lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge tomorrow. He will be accompanied to the White House by his secretary, Mgr. Richard J. Haberlin. In making his flattering remarks, the Cardinal made it clear that he was speaking solely as a citizen of the head of the country, and was not departing from his rule never to discuss partisan politics.

Cardinal O'Connell presided at the meeting of the trustees.

He also will attend the meeting of the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the United States and will depart for home on riday evening.

Discussing the recent speech of Governor Ritchie of Maryland at the session of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, Cardinal O'Connell lauded that portion of it in favor of special welfare work by private, rather than governamental, agencies.

Sixty Per Cent. of U. S. Homes Use Bakers' Bread

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Bakers' bread has supplanted the home-made variety in 60 per cent. of the homes of the United States, Lewis F. Bolser of Minneapolis, president of the American Bakers' Association, told the assembled delegates to that organization's convention today.

Twenty-eight years ago 80 per cent. of the bread consumed was home baked and now research has shown only 40 per cent. is home made.

SELL STATION 2 FOR $104,500

After months of effort the city got rid of old Police Station 2 in City Hall avenue today.

It was sold at public auction to Robert M. Dobbins, a real estate dealer, for $104,500.

Mr. Dobbins would not say whether he purchased the property for himself or an agent, but he said it will be improved and the old station house torn down at once.

The bidding started at the upset price of $100,000 recently authorized by the City Council, when it was found at a previous auction last April there were no bidders at $121,700.

The auction was conducted by City Auctioneer Edward W. Foye, the only bidders being Dobbins and William H. Keyes, a contractor. The land is assessed at $121,700, but the structure is considered valueless. Mr. Dobbins made a deposit of $2,000 after the sale.

BAKERS' EXPOSITION OPENED BY COOLIDGE

Washington, Sept. 15 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge pushed a button in the White House at 10 today, formally opening the American Bakers' Exposition at Buffalo.

128,000 BACK TO SCHOOL STUDIES

Latter-day Rollos and Elsie Dinsmores, paragons of youthful virtue, were up betimes today, their faces washed—even behind the ears—their books, papers, and pencils all ready, and with an apple for teacher, for today is the first day of school, tra-la, today is the first day of school.

But ordinary boys and girls—particularly boys—were not so enthusiastic.

But anyway they had to go, 128,000 of them, pupils in all grades in the Boston schools.

The teachers were called in earlier for special instruction and to get things all prepared.

The figures, according to as accurate an estimate as possible, are Teachers' college, 800; high and Latin schools, 23,000; elementary schools, ninth grade, 2,700; elementary schools, grades one to eight, 91,000; kindergartens, 9,000, and special schools, 1,700.

The trial had been set for today, and relatives and friends of the girl whom Kirby murdered had been looking forward with horror to the airing of the fearful details of the revolting crime.

The man's suicide saves them this ordeal, and also saves the State a great amount of money.

POTTER'E FIELD GRAVE LIKELY FOR KIRBY

Augusta, Me., Sept. 15.—Harry A Kirby, confessed murderer of Aida Hayward, likely will be buried in Potter's Field. The murderer cheated the law by committing suicide, severing an artery in his arm.

'THE GORILLA' TENSE WITH MYSTERY

Play Is Vivid in Its Action and Keen, Sustained Suspense

Talk about your hairy apes and Tarzan, "The Gorilla," which opened at the Plymouth Theatre has all the earmarks of thrill and mystery and clawy suspense.

If you like your mystery wild and your suspense wilder, this thrilling, chilling and killing three-act satire is the best that could fill your wants.

One phrase seasons the whole show and coming as it does in such places as dark cellars and in the claw grasp of the gorilla, it reaped many howls from an appreciative audience.

HELLISH ANIMAL.

Like all mystery plays it has a central figure and you watch it closely thinking first one then the other is the hellish animal. In the end it turns out to be he whom you least believed it could be.

Such is the recipe for all good mystery plays and living true to form "The Gorilla" keeps up the mark. It would spoil the whole show to say who the gorilla really is, so suffice it to say it is somebody whom you think it isn't.

Despite that some parts of the wit are labored, the comedy is good on the whole, and if the thunderous outburst and reception of the audience is a gauge at all the show is good for a long run.

WILD SCENES.

Most unusual is the free-for-all staged at nearly the end of the performance when the gorilla escapes and makes his way into the audience, dashing madly up and down aisles, over seats much to the screaming outbursts of hysterical folks.

Bessie Eyton, as Alice Denby, has the distinction of being the only woman in the cast and does the little she does to perfection.

The horrified audience screamed and fumed. The lady must be saved! She is—and everybody is happy.

SPLENDID ACTING.

Edmund Elton as "Mulligan" does all the hard work of the show, and he does that real well. After he acquired sufficient steam towards the end of the first act he proceeds at a rapid gait. His acting is well done, and as the answer to "Where the Hell Is Mulligan," he and his partner, J. Harry Jenkins, as Garrity, are a team.

Thomas J. Grady, as the faithful servant, Jefferson Lee, supplies much of the comedy, as domestics usually do.

FARNUM PLAYS GENTLE TYPE MORGAN

'The Buccaneer" at Tremont Marks His Return to Speaking Stage

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

A YOUTHFUL impression of Morgan the Buccaneer, garnered secretly from pages of the forbidden dime novel, left us in no mood for complete reverence for William Farnum's exploits at the Tremont last evening. The Morgan of our childhood had little in common with the pirate-hero of the new Maxwell Anderson-Laurence Stallings romantic comedy, who swore with a perfumed breath and whose deadliest weapons turned out to be soft words for willing women.

DEMANDS RESPECT.

The return of William Farnum to the speaking stage demands a certain measure of respect, for he had long been lost to that higher branch of dramatic art; a new play by Messrs. Anderson and Stallings, in its own right, demands further serious respect and attention. The combination, however, as it was revealed at the Tremont, could not be expected to stir any stimulating interest. Romantic comedy with Carribean pirates and lovely Colonial ladies yielded promise of animated action, but as the play rolled along it became more and more apparent that this pirate capuin was little more than a dandy of the royal court in old clothes.

As for the ladies, they piled a game hardly less modest than that which horrifies and astounds the sure thinkers of the present day and year.

Mr. Farnum's Morgan had the figure of the blood-thirsty cutthroat of the Spanish Main—but his action was dull. He was a swash-buckling hero who neither swashed nor buckled. The hardest duty imposed upon him by the authors was to be ever alert with a ready tongue reeking with sweet nothings for fair creatures who fell into his hands. No matter how you may be persuaded to take your drams, Mr. Farnum was not the Morgan of your blissful imagination. Farnum acted well, of course—he had been trained for years in that important detail. But as a pirate chief he was about as deadly as a nut sundae.

TOILED EARNESTLY.

In support of her more distinguished leader, Estelle Winwood gave a painstaking, carefully toned performance. If she appeared more calculated than passionate the responsibility may be placed upon the brow of her authors. She toiled earnestly with the material at hand which, by any measure, was almost too thin for safe and easy delivery.

A bright spot in the performance was Jeanne Greene, who made one warm hearted Spanish girl almost too good to be true; also too indiscreet to be mentioned above a whisper.

"The Buccaneer" is not as rough as it sounds. At the worst he is a very gentle creature.

Three Events of Interest to Smart Set Next Saturday

Myopia Clubmen to Feature in Races of Various Sorts on Closing Day at Topsfield Fair

By BETTY ALDEN

SATURDAY NEXT UNFOLDS A TRIPLE interest for society, what with a marriage of surpassing interest on the cards; a benefit, backed by certain fashionable matrons, for the American Legion, and Myopia riders taking the field at the Topsfield Fair in a brilliant card of races and drag hunts.

THE LAST DAY of the Topsfield Fair at the big grounds on the Turnpike is annually sacred to Myopia and its gentlemen riders and thoroughbred horses. This season the drag hunt with a Myopia pack is an "extra added attraction" and lends a distinctly sporting interest to the spectacle.

VIRTUALLY ALL the Shore's well-known stables send horses and there's much spirited and good-natured rivalry. And all the countryside turns out. The Essex County Agricultural Association is staging the fair, a Massachusetts organization of hoary distinction, has Messrs. Francis F. Appleton, Isaac Howe Sawyer and Edward Wigglesworth at its head.

THE WEDDING of all ingrossing importance unites two prominent families. Miss Martha Bigelow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Bigelow of Brookline (Mrs. Bigelow was Miss Gladys Williams), marries Mr. Theodore Lyman Eliot, son of the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot and Mrs. Eliot, the ceremonial in Brookline's First Parish Church with the Rev. Abbot Peterson and the bridegroom's father officiating.

A CHARMING GROUP of bridesmaids walks to the altar in attendance upon Miss Bigelow, each a belle and right to the fore in the youthful set. They are Miss Margery Richardson, Miss Mary Otis, Miss Hannah Hallowell, Miss Ruth Bremer, Miss Margaret Warner, Miss Mary Hopkinson and Mrs. Leighton Brewer (Helen Hamlin). Miss Gladys Bigelow, the bride's younger sister (not yet out), is honor maid.

MRS. CURTIS GUILD and Mrs. Lavalle (her sister), Mrs. John Boyce Burden, Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, Mrs. Timothee Adamowski (the last two just back from Europe) and Mrs. Nathaniel Parwell Ayer are enlisted to make next Saturday's gala fete at Deer Cove Inn, Swampscott, a vivid attraction to everyone and a huge money-getter as well. The Leon D. Abbott Post of the American Legion benefits.

MRS. WALTER M. PRATT of the Hotel Somerset, with Mrs. Mark Andrew and Mrs. Carol Swan, devote their attention to the Tea Garden at the fete. Speaking of Mrs. Pratt, by the way, she and Major Pratt are box holders for the San Carlo opera week now on at the Opera House. Alexander Steinert, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich, Professor Eldon James of Harvard University and Mrs. James also are box holders.

CONTINUING THE LIST, there appear the names of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Flanders, Harrison Mifflin, William R. Hartland, Mr. and Mrs. James Bowen, Isadore Bergstein and the Misses Braggiotti, Mr. and Mrs. James Phelan, Rear-Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer and Mrs. de Steiguer, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew di Pietro and Judge Zottoli.

DISCOURSE ON AILMENTS TOPS STRONG KEITH BILL

The long search for a fit companion on a desert island ends at Keith's Theatre when Dr. Rockwell—that's the whole name—discourses a bit on ailments, the way to long life and what happens to the four out of five whose best friends even won't tell them.

The keynote in one of the best built bills is Dr. Rockwell, with John Steel, tenor of concert and musical comedy stages; Wilfred Clarke and company in a delicious farce, Lily Morris, English musical comedienne; Warren and O'Brien, "ludicrists," and the altogether engaging Madelyn and Norman Meredith, dancers, as heavy timbers.

You'll say that this week's assembly at Keith's is up in the best ten, from "The Lost Tribe" down.

NEW GRIFFITH FILM PLEASES AT STATE

For entertainment, for tears teased away by laughter, for lovable characters and exciting action, never has D. W. Griffith done anything finer than "Sally of the Sawdust," shown at Loew's State Theatre for its premiere. It is all sunny laughter, merry jest, quaint dollories tucked into an interesting story that marches along to a finish as funny and exciting as anything that has ever been delivered to the silver screen.

Carol Dempster is the feature player, supported principally by W. C. Fields, a comedian of the Ziegfeld's Follies.

An additional attraction was the appearance of "The Musical Countess," who served her audience with a melodic treat.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE HAS FINE MUSICAL COMEDY

The Somerville Theatre threw open its doors to a large audience. The offering was Tommy Manley in a new musical comedy, "Some Girl."

"Some Girl" is an entertainment fit for the "Big Time." The costuming is elaborate, and particularly effective is the apparel worn by the stars.

Continuing Shows

MAJESTIC — "Rose-Marie." Mr. Hammerstein's melodious operetta of colorful Canada.

NEW PARK—"Duty." A drama of home life in a New Jersey town. Splendidly acted.

'THE TEN COMMANDMENTS' SCORES AT ORPHEUM

Cecil B. De Mille's "The Ten Commandments" was shown at Loew's Orpheum theatre. Contrary to the general impression, there is plenty of zip and speed in "The Ten Commandments," even though the first reel of the picture is based on Biblical history.

A vaudeville bill of exceptional merit also was presented. Heading the same were Chief Howling Wolf and Princess Lillian, and an Indian Jazz Revue. Krugel and Robles kept the audience in a continuous laughter with new chatter, and other good acts were Harris and Vaughn, in comedy; Grant and Feeley, in songs and dialogue, and Alexander Brothers and Evelyn, in an acrobatic act.

'AIDA' GIVEN WITH BALLET SPECTACLE

San Carlos Company at Boston Opera House Makes Hit

By MOSES SMITH

It is the middle of September and Summer is still officially as well as actually with us. But the weather-man is evidently all wrong, for last night the San Carlo Opera Company opened the musical season with a solid punch, presenting Verdi's "Aida" as the first offering for a week's stay.

It was the earliest time in many a year that grand opera was neard so far advanced in the season, before even a Symphony Concert or any other kind of concert had prepared the way.

Yet last night's audience all but filled the huge Boston Opera House, and we are assured that the ticket sales for the rest of the week are correspondingly large, Friday being already almost a sell-out.

BOX OFFICE WINNER.

How does the San Carlo Company do it? Fotune Gallo, directer of the organization, could tell if he wished. He is the one man in the history of American opera who has made opera pay at the box-office.

Year after year his organization makes the rounds of the American opera houses, and year after year crowds listen to it. Considering the prices charged at the "gate" the standard of performance is a high one.

The present run, if one may judge from last night's performance, is up to the usual standard. "Aida" is probably the most popular piece for an opening night in the entire operatic repertoire. It's music is well-known, it has a wealth of opportunity for pageantry and display, and equally great opportunity for ensemble singing—and these are all things that operatic audiences love.

In addition, there is elaborate ballet-work, which last night was capably done by the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet, once again associated with the San Carlo Company.

FAMILIAR FAVORITES.

With one exception, the principal singers of last evening were familiar to Boston audiences. The one newcomer in the cast was Emilio Ghirardini, who appeared in the role of Amonasaro.

He has a smooth baritone of even quality, and he acted his intensely dramatic part with becoming warmth.

Anna Roselle was Aida. Her dramatic soprano voice of sufficient volume and good quality was under admirable control, and her singing and acting, as much as anything else, accounted for the coherency of the presentation of Verdi's masterpiece.

Stella de Mette as Amneris and Manuel Salazar as Radames recalled familiar talents.

Ramfis was played by the veteran of many a season, Pietro de Biasi, who goes on apparently almost forever. He has more than one kick left in him yet, as those may testify who remember his work in "The Tales of Hoffmann."

Carlo Peroni was the conductor, having a noticeably improved orchestra at his service. This fact was largely responsable for the general improvement in ensemble work over that of previous seasons. The ballet, as mentioned above, was well done.

Tonight's bill is "Tosca," with Bianca Saroya in the title role. Following the performance of the opera the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet will present a group of Divertissements.

Coming Events

George M. Cohan, acting in his own play, "American Born," will be the opening attraction at the Hollis, starting next Monday.

"The Student Prince," an impressive operetta, will take possession of the Shubert stage next Monday.

Mr. Ziegfeld's newest edition of the Follies to take the road will move into the Colonial next Monday.

Sousa and his band will be the day's attraction at Symphony Hall, beginning next Sunday. Several musical novelties are promised.

"The Show-off" is scheduled for appearance at the New Park on Monday, September 28.

"Abie's Irish Rose," long deferred, but eagerly awaited, will open its local engagement at the Castle Square Theatre on Monday, September 28.

"What Price Glory" is announced for the Wilbur on Monday, September 28.

The Boston Civic Grand Opera Company will hold the stage at the Boston Opera House for one week beginning Monday, September 28.

MILLIONS POUR IN FOR THIS YEAR'S TAX

The office of the Collector of Internal Revenue in the Park Square Building will be open until seven o'clock this evening so that late comers will be able to pay their third installments of taxes due Sept. 15.

After midnight tonight those who have failed to pay the amounts due will be subject to penalty.

During the past week the mails have brought millions of dollars to Uncle Sam's treasury. It is expected that the peak will be reached today and the cashier's force will be augmented by assistants from other departments of the service.

Officials of the department have completed preparations to handle the last minute rush quickly and efficiently.

Following is a list of taxpayers:

PHONE WORKERS LIAISON AGENTS IN MANY CLUBS

Picked employes of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company are enrolled as members of all sorts of clubs and civic organizations and their fees and dues paid by the company. This is done to sound public opinion, to shape it where possible, and to grease the political ways.

These liaison agents keep their ears to the ground. They form a sort of secret service. It is part of the underground system of the public service corporation which was recently granted a $8,640,000 plum by the Public Utilities Commission in the form of increased telephone rates throughout the State.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company, parent of the New England Company and controller of the telephone business of the country, inaugurated this secret service system years ago.

In addition to the active "spotters," in organizations in every community, the telephone companies employ lobbyists. Some of the lobbyists are nothing more than "runners" and "fixers." They do the dirty work. They are even enrolled in labor organizations.

ESTABLISH CONTACTS.

Confidential instructions sent out by the American Telephone Company to its subsidiaries, of which the New England company is one of twenty-five, read:

"Membership in such organizations as the United States Chamber of Commerce, national labor organizations and national farmers' organizations, etc., local chambers of commerce, rotary clubs, etc., and civic organizations of every description, improvement societies and neighborhood groups, church clubs, consumers' leagues, etc., affords unusual opportunities for establishing contacts with the leaders in general public activities and those who are moulding public sentiment.

"It reflects credit on our organization to have our people identified with activities of this nature, no matter how small the group. There are some types of organizations where the company should have representation, and yet an employe would not care, for financial or other reasons, to join on his own account. In such cases, the proper person may be designated to act for the company at the company's expense.

URGED TO SPEAK.

"See that telephone employes are thoroughly familiar with the facts that justify confidence in the financial integrity of the Bell system and in their own local companies.

"Make special lists of organizations, associations and individuals in each territory to whom items of interest bearing on Bell system securities can be sent from time to time.

"Use any opportunity offered to speak before bond clubs or similar organizations on the general stability of the Bell system and the position of the local company in that system."

Mrs. Ella P. Copeland of No. 16 Evergreen avenue, Somerville, has finally got rid of her telephone, Somerset 7547-J. She ordered it removed because of the increased rate, but the company delayed. Finally she received the following letter:

"This is to acknowledge receipt of your request by telephone to discontinue your service at the above address." Orders have been issued for the removal of this service and will be completed as promptly as possible. Final statement, including charges to date of August 1, will be mailed at our earliest convenience, after the service is removed.

PLEA TO CONTINUE.

I am very sorry to have been obliged to order the termination of your service and trust that some time in the near future we will again have the pleasure of having you as one of our patrons.

Very truly yours,

C. E. Roukes, Manager.

An agent removed the telephone soon after the letter arrived.

P. E. Walsh, No. 63 Linden Park street, Roxbury, writes:

"Please include me in the people who wish their telephones removed. I wish to add my protest against the telephone rates that have been imposed upon subscribers, by demanding that my phone be removed. I have asked them to remove it since August 1."

AVALANCHE OF PHONE KICKS

Young women clerks in Correspondence Department of Boston Evening American sorting out the avalanche of letters and petitions received daily in protest against the increased telephone rates.

LABOR TO FIGHT INJUNCTION

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 15 (A.P.).—The American Federation of Labor will fight for judicial reform that would eliminate the use of the injunction in labor disputes, William Green, president of that organization, told the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America.

He referred to the Wilkerson injunction of the railroad strike of 1922 as "atrocious," and as "the outstanding act of injustice perpetrated by our government."

"We are not servile units of society. We propose to fight against judicial error and judicial wrong until we succeed in maintaining our equality before the law and in establishing the sanctity and sacredness of human rights as paramount when they clash with the right to own property and to use and enjoy it."

WIDENER WINS SUIT FOR TWO REMBRANDTS

New York, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Two Rembrandt portraits valued at more than $500,000 will eventually come into possession of an American Museum as a result of a suit which attracted international attention.

Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia financier, yesterday won a suit involving his right to the paintings by purchase from Prince Felix Youssoupoff of Russia. Mr. Widener has said he will bequeath his entire art collection to some museum in memory of his father.

"HIGHWAY ROBBERY"

That is what the housewives of Greater Boston and the State call the new schedule of increased rates granted the telephone company. Fight the injustice and rebuke the Public Utilities Commission by signing this petition and thus register your personal protest.

TELEPHONE PETITION

TO GOVERNOR FULLER:

We, the undersigned, subscribers of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, voice our protest against the increase of rates for telephone service as granted by the Public Utilities Commission of Massachusetts, and petition that the former schedule of rates be restored immediately.

NAME ADDRESS

NOTE—Paste this petition at top of long sheet of paper and obtain as many signatures as possible. Kindly see that names and addresses are written clearly and on one side of paper only. Send petitions to Boston Evening American, Tinthrop square, Boston, and they will be forwarded to Housekeepers' Club of Massachusetts.

GIVE UP HOPE FOR BOARDMAN

Lowell, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—J. Harry Boardman, former bank cashier, who shot himself through the temple yesterday morning, when ostensibly preparing to go to Boston to receive sentence in the United States court, for having embezzled $70,000 of the Old Lowell Bank's funds, was still unconscious and sinking rapidly at his home, 107 Clark Road, today.

Attending physicians held out no hope for his recovery.

KIDNAP CONSTABLE'S SON AND STEAL HIS AUTO

Woodbridge, Ont., Sept. 15.—(A.P.)—Unknown persons kidnaped the 12-year-old son of County Constable Caplan. The constable had gone to a neighbor's home and left the boy outside in his automobile. When he returned the machine and boy had disappeared.

Carnival Plans Ready

Plans have been completed for the carnival to be held on the Watertown High School Field, Saturday, Sept. 26, under the auspices of Watertown Lodge of Elks. The large committee named by the lodge to prepare for the event is headed by Maurice Fitzgerald.

MAINE OPPOSES FREIGHT RATE INCREASE

Demand There Be Reduction in the Interterritorial Rates as Well

The Maine Traffic Association objects, not only to any increase in freight rates, such as proposed by the railroads in the schedule filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, but asks there be a reduction in the interterritorial rates under which the Maine Central now operates. This was made clear at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing before Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman at the Chamber of Commerce today by Benjamin F. Cleaves of Portland.

Mr. Cleaves was one of the day's witnesses, others of whom were Seldon N. Wardwell, attorney for the Maine Traffic Association, and Chester L. Whittemore, traffic manager for the New England Pulp and Paper Association.

Mr. Wardwell testified one of the best indications of the financial condition of a railroad is to be had from a study of the cost of operating. If operation costs are low, the road is not suffering and can be said to be in a fairly good condition, he testified. Mr. Wardwell insisted the conditions of the New England roads had shown improvement since the hearings before the Storrow committee a few years ago.

He testified that at that time it was shown the margin in operating rates between trunk line carriers and those of New England was at three cents over the dollar. He testified there is no present reason for higher freight rates in New England.

The pulp and paper manufacturers, through Mr. Whitemore, showed the upbuilding of New England industry through the so-called group sytem and discussed its relation to the rate situation. Increases, he testified, would be harmful to the industry east of Brunswick, Me., in particular and New England in general.

WATERTOWN WOMEN TO GIVE "RADIO CARNIVAL"

The Watertown Woman's Club has begun preparations for a "Radio Carnival," the date for which has not been set. The affair will include a radio exhibit, a "kiddie-car" parade, a doll carriage parade and other features. It is planned to stage a play, a circus and a dance. Mrs. Sophie Steward is general chairman in charge.

Too Much Hot Air Brings Grief to Phone Girls

Brockton, Sept. 15.—Employes of the plant department of the Brockton branch of the N. E. T. & T. Company have been forced to work in heated rooms for the past three days. The company has kept steam on the heating plant during that period in order to dry out the wires in relays and switchboards. The moisture of the air generated by the excessive humidity of the past week, has seeped into the wires despite the heavy insulation and much mechanical trouble has resulted.

CAILLAUX TO GET A CURT 'NO!'

Washington, Sept. 15 (I.N.S.).—A curt and peremptory "no" will be his American government's answer to any proposal from the French Debt Commission that settlement of the French war debt of $4,000,000,000 be made in any way contingent upon the payments France receives from Germany as reparation.

This was ascertained today from the highest sources within the administration. Officials read with interest and some incredulity dispatches from Paris that Joseph Caillaux, the French Finance Minister, would lay down such a formula when he arrives in Washington. The position of the United States on this point, it was explained, is so well known it is inconceivable M. Caillaux would seriously put it forward in the negotiations.

The bedrock position of the American government is there can be negotiations on only one phase of the French debt. That is, France's ability to pay.

UNDER THE STATE HOUSE DOME

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

ALBERT H. ALLISON, assistant foreman of buildings and grounds at the State House, has joined the rush to the boom State of Florida. Allison's destination is Miami, where he plants to go into the electrical business. He first entered the employ of the State twelve years ago as a coal passer.

HERMAN A. MacDONALD, OF Beverly, secretary to Governor Fuller, is enjoying a vacation in Jackson, N. H. Mac decided to substitute a little golf for the rod and line this year.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL JESSE F. STEVENS, State Treasurer William S. Youngman and State Librarian Edward H. Redstone, members of a special commission created by the Legislature, are journeying through the western part of the State, determining the route taken by General Henry Knox in bringing guns and ammunition captured at Fort Ticonderoga to Washington camp in Cambridge in 1775 and 1776. They will estimate the number of markers necessary to mark the route, the cost, and will draft the necessary legislation connecting with the undertaking.

MOST PEOPLE ARE UNDER the impression the five members of the Public Utilities Commission, who awarded the $8,500,000 increase in rates to the telephone company, are all Republicans. It will interest many of these to know the commission has always regarded Commissioner David A. Ellis as the representative of the minority party. There is nothing in the law, however, which provides for appointments based on party lines.

WINNER OF MEDAL HERO OVERSEAS

The heroism of Ladderman Edward F. Doyle, winner of the Boston Evening American's diamond medal for performance of great deeds in rescuing victims from the Pickwick Club ruins last July, has not been confined to departmental work. Overseas with the First Corps, Chemical Warfare Service, Doyle was in five major engagements with various divisions and accredited himself with honor.

HONOR MEDAL HERO WAS GAS FIGHTER

Edward F. "Larry" Doyle of Ladder Company No. 8, Boston Fire Department, picked by the departmental Board of Merit and a committee of citizens for decoration with the Boston Evening American's Diamond Medal as the fireman who, between February 1 and August 1 of this year, "performed the most meritorious act" achieved by any member of the department, was a "fireman" overseas, also.

Ladderman Doyle will receive his diamond medal on Wednesday evening of next week at the Parkman bandstand on Boston Common.

There will be a band concert. Fiftor James T. Williams of the Boston Evening American will introduce Chairman Alfred Davenport of the Citizens' Committee as chairman of the evening.

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn will tell what "Larry" Doyle and other firemen did at the Pickwick Club disaster on the morning of the Fourth of July, and Mayor James M. Curley, on behalf of the Boston Evening American and its readers, will attach the diamond medal to Doyle's uniform.

SAVED FOUR LIVES.

Yesterday's Evening American told how "Larry" Doyle had been designated by two committees as the fire fighter entitled to the first of the diamond medals, because of his standout performance at the Pickwick Club, where he brought four persons out of the ruins and back to life.

Then he collapsed and was removed to the City Hospital, with three of the four men he had saved.

Only a few persons, however, know anything of Doyle's service overseas, of the unique outfit he was attached to, of his pluck and persistency in signing up with that outfit.

"When I was a youngster in East Boston," Larry said today, "I had but one ambition. I wanted to be a fireman.

HIS BIG AMBITION.

"I cannot explain exactly the appeal the life has always made to me. It wasn't the money: all a fireman of my grade receives is about $42 a week.

"I couldn't wait to get into the fire department, but began with the Boston Protective Department, because the Protectives were good enough to take a fellow on at the age of twenty.

"They tell me I was the first uniformed fireman in the State to join the gas and flame regiment for the World War, and I believe I was.

"I had been reading a lot about that 'liquid gas' outfit, organized to use something new in war material, and nothing would do but I must get in.

"But the late Commissioner Grady wouldn't listen to it. My probationary period was only recently up and he thought uniformed firemen were going to be exempt from service.

FLAME FIGHTER.

"'There must be a way,' I said to myself, and back I go to 3 Tremont Row, where a major accepted me.

"I left the United States on December 28, 1917, reached France on January 10, 1918, and came home again on February 2, 1919. From November 8, 1917, until I was mustered out I was a member of Company B of the Gas Regiment, under Captain G. J. Siedoff."

The men of Doyle's outfit went ahead of the infantry, every man in the company carrying on his back a tank containing liquid fire to wipe out machine gun nests.

ON FLANDERS FIELDS.

Doyle names over Flanders, Feyen-Haye, Fleury, Seringes et Nesles, Bois Brule, Vesle and Argonne-Meuse as some of the places he "visited" while abroad. He suffered mustard gas wounds at Verdun, and again on the British front at Ypres, and in March, 1918, was laid up for repairs in Canadian Base Hospital No. 7, at Lakehurst.

"When you are talking about 'outfits,' I know nothing better to belong to than the Boston Fire Department. Of course I am glad to be singled out for the honor of receiving the first of the Boston Evening American's Diamond Medals, but down in my heart I know it was merely a case of opportunity. Any other man in the department would have done what I did at the Pickwick Club—or more, perhaps—if he happened to be sent in under similar circumstances."

(In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, Ladderman Doyle will relate his own impressions of the Pickwick Club disaster and tell about the voices that came to him out the debris.)

POISONS SON AND SELF; BOTH DEAD

Owensound, Ont., Sept. 15 (I.N.S.)—Suffering from poor health and believed to have become insane, Mrs. Stanley Foster of Keppell township administered poison to her six-year-old son, David Lloyd, and then took the remainder of the vial herself. Both died here today.

MAYOR CURLEY NOW VICTIM OF POISON

Just Recovering From Nervous Attack, He Is Stricken With Ptomaine

Just as Mayor James M. Curley seemed on the point of recovering from the nervous attack that followed the injuries he received in an auto accident, the city's chief executive was stricken with ptomaine poisoning.

Now his absence from his desk at City Hall, which he was scheduled to return to tomorrow or the next day, will be continued for some time, according to his physicians.

The Mayor, his wife and his son were injured more or less seriously when the Curley automobile struck an unlighted car parked at the roadside at Nantasket near the Mayor's Summer home. A few days afterward the Mayor started for Boston to review the Legion parade, but he was overcome by a nervous attack and forced to return to his home.

Now just as he seemed to be well on the road to recovery the ptomaine poisoning has made him a victim.

M'MILLAN'S SHIPS ON LAST LEG FOR HOME

Captain Steele's Wife Receives Radiogram Telling Good News

Mrs. George Steele of No. 111 Winthrop street, Roxbury, has good reason to be happy today. She received the following radiogram from her husband, Captain George F. Steele of the S. S. Peary, now with MacMillan in the Arctic:

"Godhaab, Greenland, Sept. 14,

"Via Station 2ZN, Chicago.

"Mrs. George F. Steele,

"111 Winthrop street, Roxbury:

"Godhaab, Greenland, today, our last stop on the coast of Greenland for the coast of Labrador, and then down to Wiscasset, Me., where will probably dock not later than Saturday, September 26.

"(Signed) GEORGE."

Captain Steele has been in touch with Mrs. Steele continuously, even though separated by thousands of miles. Through the efficient use of the widely heralded "short-wave radio" system, the cares and worries of an explorer's wife have been minimized almost 100 per cent.

anything that they choose to make it if they would take the trouble to do it. Perhaps that is solemn truth.

Rev. John Roach Straton, who would willingly help lynch our modernists if his conscience would let him, says we need more revivals. That's proved by the fact that there were ten thousand murders and only a few hangings and electrocutions in this country last year. He saw two holdups in Chicago in one short visit.

Rev. Paul C. J. Warren: "We need modern prophets to interpret the old truths in the new and in the pulpit. More purity of heart and strength of conviction will bring the millennium."

BUT THE Rev. Charles Francis Potter, prominent Unitarian, says we need a brand new religion, and he proves his sincerity by resigning from his job. It is very enlightening to read twenty or thirty sermons a week.

A BEAUTIFUL carillon of fifty-three musical bells, given by John D. Rockefeller to the Park Avenue Baptist Church of New York, now rings sweetly on Sundays. The music is very clear, and, unlike some church bells, does not disturb the sick or the sleepy. This music of church bells can be heard distinctly at a distance of five blocks from the church. There science steps in. The radio broadcasts a little distance from the bells and the music can be heard in Chicago, Havana, Seattle, Honolulu and Paris.

How that would amaze and frighten the sincere old Christians that used to ring the church bells in a thunder storm as a plague to frighten away the devils supposed to be riding on the air.

GREAT POWER companies use coal, hard or soft, pulverized, ground to the finest dust and blown by compressed air to feed the fires under boilers. This does away with ashes and smoke almost entirely, greatly increases the heat value of the coal, makes handling of coal by firemen unnecessary.

THIS ARRANGEMENT undoubtedly will be applied to the use of the enormous and at present practically wasted supplies of peat and lignites.

6-YEARS TERM, $525 IN FINES FOR MARTELLO

"Arsenal Auto" Driver Appeals and Is Held in $25,-500 Bail by Court

Fate laid a lusty smack today on Stephen Martello of Kendall street, Roxbury, and when all was over in Roxbury Court he stood bowed under the weight of one $25 fine, another of $200, a third of $300, a sentence of one year, a second of two and a half years and a third of the same length.

Totalling them sadly by mental arithmetic, Martello discovered that they ran $525 in fines and a full six years in the House of Correction.

The score was as follows: Operating an automobile without a license, $25; attempting to offer Patrolman Patrick J. Garrity of the Roxbury Crossing station a $40 bribe, one year; carrying a loaded revolver, $200, and two and one-half years; having control of a loaded revolver and sawed-off shotgun in his automobile $300 and two and a half years, half years.

Martello appealed, of course, and Judge Hayden set bail at $25,500, which counsel, John P. Feeney, averred was a mile high, but which he agreed not to seek to lower.

Martello was arrested on September 5 in Sterling street, Roxbury, when Patrolman Garrity became suspicious of his actions and searched both him and the car.

EDWARD L. PARKER AT REST IN SLEEPY HOLLOW

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Edward L. Parker, an expert accountant of Boston, in his home on Nashawtuc Hill, Concord. The Rev. Dr. Gail Cleland, pastor of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, Concord, of which Mr. Parker was long clerk, conducted the services. Burial was in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery. The bearers were Judge Prescott Keyes, Herbert W. Blanchard, John J. Dee, Elliot R. Howard, John M. Keyes, Benjamin Moody, Thomas Todd and William Wheeler.

U. S. WILL BARE AIR SECRETS AT HEARING

Secretary Wilbur Announces He Will Make All Facts Available in Mitchell Inquiry.

Washington, Sept. 15.—All the secret information bearing upon military aircraft both in America and abroad now in possession of the American government will be laid before President Coolidge's special aircraft investigating committee, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced today.

Before a tribunal assumed to be impartial, Colonel Mitchell will appear as the star witness, unfolding to the public the evidence to substantiate his charges that gross incompetence, criminal negligence and almost treasonable conduct by the old-guard military chiefs are responsible for the tragedies of the air and for the inferiority of the country's air defenses.

The Presidential commission will meet here Thursday with President Coolidge. They will learn from the President his desire to "know the truth."

The War Department will defer his court-martial if necessary to allow him to appear as a witness before the Presidential Court of Inquiry.

Secretary Wilbur designated a special board, headed by Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, chief of the navy general board, to investigate and place the responsibility for the wreck of the Shenandoah.

Major-General Ernest Hinds, commander of the eighth corps area, sent to the War Department a verbatim copy of Colonel Mitchell's sensational attack upon the Old-Guard military chiefs.

It was placed into the hands of Major-General John L. Hines, chief of staff, who will submit it in routine to the Judge-advocate-general for determination of whether Mitchell's statement will stand as a basis for court-martial proceedings against him.

The Shenandoah probe will "supplement" the investigation to be made of the nation's status in the air. Its specific duty will be to determine the causes and destruction of the giant dirigible.

The other naval inquirers designated by Wilbur are Captain Lewis H. Clark, aide to assistant Secretary Robinson; Captain Lewis McBride of the naval construction corps, Commander John H. Towers, Lieutenant-Commander Ralph C. Pennoyer, Captain Paul Foley, who is director of the experimental station at Bellevue, District of Columbia, and Lieutenant-Commander M. R. Pierce.

Captain Foley will be the legal prosecutor for the court. Mr. Pierce will be his adviser.

Pennoyer is a naval aviator and a lighter-than-air pilot. He was sent to Germany to inspect the Los Angeles while it was in construction.

Pierce is claimed to have been familiar with the Shenandoah and to hold rank as an aviator of the lighter-than-air machines.

FUGITIVE TRAILED TO SWAMP

The above photo shows the trail followed down the railroad track at Essex by Frank Currie, jail breaker, who escaped the Salem Jail. Dr. Wilbur Andrews is pointing the direction taken by Currie when the latter crossed a marsh. Insert shows Helen Meuse, of Gloucester, said to be the sweetheart of Currie.

Gloucester, Sept. 15.—Local police officials expressed the belief today that Frank "Hippo" Currie, Gloucester man, who broke away from his guards as he was being led into Salem jail last Saturday afternoon, had visited West Gloucester during the early morning hours today and had broken into the West Gloucester station of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

The break was discovered early today, although no money was found missing. There was no telephone pay station in the station. Local officials also said they had information that Currie visited relatives at Essex during the night and had a steak supper and not apples which has been reported was all the food he has.

The police believed that Currie would seek to visit his wife, and they had been watching the Currie home diligently, but today Mrs. Currie walked into police headquarters and tearfully asked for news of her husband, as she had neither seen him nor had received word from him since his break for liberty.

Twice before Currie escaped, but each time he was retaken through the foolhardy chances he took.

A camp in the woods near West Gloucester is believed to have been Currie's refuge since his escape, though he has now left the place. It had been broken into, and several cans of beans and other canned goods had been taken.

HIT ON HEAD, DRUGGED, SAYS STANFIELD

Boise, Ida., Sept. 15.—(A.P.)—Robert N. Stanfield, United States Senator from Oregon, on arriving here asserted that his arrest at Baker, Ore., on charges of being drunk and disorderly was a frame-up.

The senator in a statement said:

"I went into the cafe for luncheon after attending to some business. I had gone to the cashier to pay my bill when I was struck on the head from behind. I wheeled and struck out in self defense. I demanded to know what the trouble was and I was informed I was under arrest. I asked what for and was told for drunkenness.

"I was pitched onto and dragged out of the restaurant, although I offered to go unsupported."

BIG POWER PLAN VOTED IN MAINE

Portland, Me., Sept. 15 (A.P.).—A $160,000,000 project for harnessing the great tides of the Bay of Fundy, to generate 500,000 to 700,000 horsepower and supply electricity to the eastern section of this country and Canada, has apparently been endorsed by the voters of Maine.

The [illegible]n, conceived by Dexter P. Cooper, would store up the waters in Passamaquoddy Bay, release them through turbines in a fifteen to twenty-foot drop into Cobscook Bay, and supply, it is estimated 3,268,000,000 kilowatt hours a year, or four times the capacity of Muscle Shoals.

At a special election the voters approved the proposal, according to incomplete returns by a vote of 39,426 to 4,851. These returns, from 185 out of 519 cities and towns, also showed large majorities for constitutional amendments for a $2,000,000 bridge across the Kennebec River at Bath and for highway and bridge construction through a bond issue of $10,000,000 to $20,000,000.

MOVE ON TO CHANGE SITE OF MEDFORD VET HOSPITAL

A movement is under way in Medford to petition the Veterans' Bureau at Washington to change its choice for a site for a veterans' hospital from the Brooks estate to the borders of the Middlesex Fells reservation. It is proposed to have the government procure a tract of land from the State which would provide a location on higher ground for rehabilitating veterans.

Why Her Miserable Headaches, Sick Stomach and Pimply Skin Have Gone

Miss Hetty Pitch, actress in "Excel Carroll Vanities," after she rid herself of Indican

Says Everyone Should Make INDICAN TEST Same as She Did

The Indican Test has shown Miss Pitch, as it has thousands of others, that sick headaches, broken out skin and pale complexion, simply cannot be permanently relieved until the Indican is removed from the system.

Indican shows there is poison being pumped into your blood, and unless you stop this poison it may cause serious sickness—perhaps rheumatism or neuritis, gastritis, or maybe even lung trouble or other serious disease.

The alarming part of it is you do not often realize the Indican is there. But when the appetite gets poor, the breath foul, when you have dizzy headaches, bilious attacks, sour, blood-sap stomach, gas—it's a pretty sure sign you have Indican.

The best thing to do is to have a urinalysis made, and if the chemist reports Indican present start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills for a few days, and see how all these signs start to disappear.

Carter's Little Liver Pills not only make the stomach, liver and bowels work in a fine healthy manner, but also have been found to drive the Indican out of the system.

NO CATCH IN OFFER OF THREE FINE AUTOS FOR 2 CENTS APIECE

DON'T SEND MONEY WITH LETTER TELLING WHY YOU LIKE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Some of our readers who are interested in the Boston Evening American's proposal to sell three high-grade automobiles for 2 cents have been sending along the two cents with their competitive letters, on "Why I Like the Boston Evening American!"

This is wrong. Please do not do it. Hold everything, in the way of cash and postage stamps, except such postage as is necessary to bring your letter to "Mr. Packard Buick Essex".

Only three persons will be asked for two cents apiece, these three being the writers of the three winning letters. No others! Everybody else comes in free of charge.

Here is the proposition:

The Boston Evening American offers for sale one five-passenger Packard-Six sedan.

Price of this car, delivered today in Boston, is $2,844.

The Evening American wants two cents for it!

This newspaper also offers for sale a Master-Six Buick sedan, with extra tire and bumpers.

The automobile dealer asks you for this car—and well he may, for it is worth every cent of it—$1,795.50.

All the Boston Evening American will accept for its new Buick is two cents.

Finally, we offer for sale the latest type of the popular Essex coach, fully equipped.

New England likes the Essex, and for a car equipped as this one is cheerfully pays $912.90.

The proud gentleman or the pretty lady who drives away from this office in this Essex, as its new proprietor will be unable to force more than two cents upon us in payment!

But nobody else is to pay us anything, so please hold onto your money. This is a unique contest in that only the winners are to pay.

NO CATCH, NO TRICK.

They are to pay, when the contest is over and they are asked to please come in and get their cars, 2 big cents apiece.

A total of 6 cents, for $5,462.40 worth of automobiles!

Two sedans, one coach, 2 cents apiece!

There isn't any "catch" to it, no trick, no sleight of hand, no magic. The Boston Evening American is sacrificing the automobiles at record-breaking prices—we challenge the world to show anything like it—because the Editor is in need of information.

He wants to know WHY you buy the Boston American.

All that anyone is asked to do, in order to become a candidate for one of these cars, is to write a letter on "Why I Like the Boston Evening American."

ONLY 250 WORDS.

It must be a letter of not more than 250 words.

It must be written, or printed, or typewritten, on one side of your notepaper only; that is, one side of your notepaper. Do not write on both sides of the sheet.

It must bear your name and address, and it must be sent to "Mr. Packard Buick Essex," in care of the Boston Evening American, No. 3 Winthrop Square, Boston.

"What shall you say in the letter?"

That is up to you. That is YOUR part of this interesting competition.

The question before the house is as plain as can be. Your subject is "Why I Like the Boston Evening American."

Well, why?

GIVE YOUR REASONS.

More than 250,000 New Englanders are buying the Boston Evening American every day in the week.

This is the largest circulation of any evening newspaper printed in these Six States.

There are other newspapers published hereabouts, which these more than 250,000 New Englanders might have if they wanted them, but no, they pass the others by and demand the evening paper with the largest circulation, the Boston Evening American.

Why? And again, why?

Why in your own case?

Why do YOU prefer the Evening American?

Think it over. Consider the question carefully. Make a note or two that will help you write your answer. Tell what the paper means in your daily life, what you look to it for, what you get from it.

MOST HELPFUL HINTS.

There's the problem and for the most helpful letter of all that come to "Mr. Packard Buick Essex" in the course of this most unusual competition the Boston American will permit the fortunate letter-writer to pay 2 cents for his choice of the three cars.

To the writer of the letter deemed the second most helpful the Boston Evening American will give a choice of the two cars remaining. But he MUST pay 2 cents for it.

Car No. 3 will become the property—upon the payment of 2 cents, in cash—of the person whose letter is considered to be Third in Merit in the matter of helpfulness.

And that's all there is. No need to ask questions about a contest as clearly set forth as this one has been. You write a letter on "Why I Like the Boston Evening American." Should that letter be adjudged one of the most helpful three letters received, you will be given an opportunity to pay 2 cents for one of these three cars.

Get busy, ladies and gentlemen. Time flies. The Editor wants help. Be sure to write.

A Packard sedan—
A Buick sedan—
An Essex coach.

Going begging, at 2 cents apiece.

A Story that Bares the Soul of a Woman, Twice Cheated Out of a Love She Is Forced to Steal

JERROLD FREYNE, a promising young author who has written a book dealing coldly and calmly with love and marriage, is appointed to a clerkship in the Foreign Legation. ELSPETH VOICEY, a cold-sweet daughter of aristocracy, is his promised bride. While wedding plans are under discussion, Jerrold meets GERDA MASKLYN, wife of his friend. He is stricken by her strange beauty and by her bewitching appeal of person. Immediately he is given a new interpretation of love, vastly different from that he put into his book. The situation is rapidly getting beyond his control, and he finds his cultured philosophy being pushed aside by a feeling blissfully new to him.

Gerda again surprises Jerrold by her frankness. "Don't you realize it all, Jerrold? Can't you imagine what it is like to love me?"

CHAPTER XV.

Copyright, 1925, by Eric Maschwitz

AT length it was at Gerda's suggestion, proffered suddenly in a quiet voice, that they returned to the inn and reclaimed their mounts. By the time that Jerrold had settled the bill she was in the saddle and beckoning him to hurry.

"Come along," she called. "Give me a hundred yards start and let me see you catch me, Mr. Jerrold!" Before he could reply she was away across the clearing and in among the trees.

Jerrold was after her like a shaft, the grey eating up the ground with his hulking stride. She flashed into view for a moment along the track and disappeared again.

The significance of the chase could not escape him. Had things been different, what a prize! He was gaining on her. A touch of the spurs and the grey seemed to leap forward.

Jerrold shouted, "Gerda, I've nearly caught you!"

Was it his fancy that her voice came back to him faintly, sweetly, "Catch me, catch me"

Suddenly she turned her horse from the track and was among the trees.

"Stop! stop!" he called, visualizing the menace of low-hanging branches, but she did not seem to hear.

When he came up with her she was sprawled on the ground, her hat flung a yard or so away, while the mare, with straining flanks, browsed at her side.

He was off his horse in a moment. As he put his arm beneath her shoulder, the faintly-violet lids quivered and the dark eyes looked up at him. "I think I must be hurt, Jerrold—my leg—can you get me back to the inn? So sorry—my own stupidity."

It did not surprise Monsieur Fanshot that his two guests should return in such a way. The English were, in his estimation, half mad anyway.

"No bones broken," he said. "A strain, perhaps. Madame is fortunate."

By the time that Gerda was comfortably settled in bed the light was fading and it was obvious that she could not be moved until the next day. Jerrold planned to ride back to Varvasch and arrange for a motor car to be sent out for her.

But, "No, please no," she begged in a voice that was a shadow of her own rich tones. "Don't leave me, Jerrold. My leg hurts dreadfully, I'll never be able to sleep unless I know you're nearby."

He promised to stay if the host could give him a room. M. Fanshot would do so with pleasure. Once she knew he was not going to desert her, Gerda seemed happier and fell asleep.

When he looked into her room many hours later she was sunk in dreams. All is well, he thought, and went to his own room.

Once in pajamas he did not jump immediately into bed but sat for a while by the open window. The

ARRESTED IN $15,000 SWINDLE

Hub Inspectors on Way Home With Prisoner Caught in Tennessee

Inspectors Thomas Towle and George Augusta today wired Boston Police Headquarters they are on their way back from Memphis, Tenn., with Walter Cummings, wanted with two other men for a mining stock swindle amounting to $15,000.

The victim was Charles A. Maxwell of Fairhaven, according to the police, who charge the alleged swindle took place in October of 1924.

MINING STOCK DEAL.

The indictment against Cummings sets forth that he went to Maxwell and told him he knew of a man in New York who would pay $5 a share for $15,000 worth of the stock of the Yakima Mining & Smelting Company of Nevada.

As it happened, Cummings is alleged to have said he also knew of another man who for a certain consideration would supply the amount of this stock wanted and was demanding only $2.50 a share for it.

He suggested Maxwell put up the money to buy the stock and he would then turn it over to the New York customer, splitting the profit with the Fairhaven man.

MET SECOND MAN.

Maxwell agreed, and, coming to Boston, was introduced by Cummings, the police say, to a second man to whom he paid $15,000 for the Yakima mine, which it transpired was worthless. The man disappeared, leaving Maxwell with the paper.

He complained to the police and indictments were returned against Cummings and two others.

GRIDDERS GIVEN TWO WORKOUTS

Coaches Size Up 97 Candidates as Harvard Gets Down to Season's Work

By TED LYNCH

Ninety-seven candidates reported for the first practice of the season at the Harvard Stadium today, and were put through limbering up exercises, starting at 3 passing by the coaches.

The weather was a little cool. The usual preliminary practice was held this afternoon.

The touring season was supervised by Head Coach Bob Fisher and Major Charley Daly, who these stants put the men through their paces. Coaches Charlie Tierney, Hubbard, and Mal Greenough, had charge of the linemen with Trainer Eddie Farrell and Leo Leary working with the ends. The backs were under Ralph Sambrotti, Dee Lewis and Tom Blake.

Although no lineups have been made as yet, a fair indication of the most promising material was given when the following men were taken to a corner of the field and given a workout together: Capt. Chosi, Bob Puffer, Izzy Zarakov, Jos McGlone, Leo Daley, Jake Stafford, Nat Howe, Moseley, Evans, Clark, Nat Hanlon, and Jack Maher.

With the first game with Rensselaer Polytechnic of New York only two weeks away, Fisher has a big task. He must develop a team out of three veterans, one of whom is now on probation. He has to find a kicker to fill the shoes of Jack Hammond, also a defensive back to take the place of Edwin Gheese.

To a coach all at once has surrounded himself with a group of clever assistants. Major Charley Daly will take care of the backfield. Leo Leary will tutor the end. Ned Mahan will develop a suitable kicker and Charlie Tierney will coach the center of the line. Eddie Farrell will succeed "Pouch" Donovan as trainer, the latter devoting his time to the track men.

As for the team itself, In the backfield the leading candidates are Al Miller, Captain Dolph Chosi, Jack Maher, George Braden, Nat Howe and "Izzy" Zarakov from last year's squad. Joe Crosby, Johnny Norsberg and Henry Chauncey, all members of last year's freshman eleven, should be valuable. Jack Maher will probably take care of the kicking department for the first week

It is the line that is causing the greatest amount of worriment. The material is as green as the Stadium grass. Carl Lodi, Leo Daley and Clem Coads are the only veterans. Coaches Tierney and Leary must develop six linemen from Ernest Glassmache, Charlie Bradford, Dick Addison Edward Nash, George Shapiro and George Hearne. Bill Fordyce, Charlie Baldwin Dan Simonds and Ben Tripp

Coach Fisher has had to mold the backfield candidates for a week. He intends to settle that in time with them, trusting to the natural foresight of Knox and his assistants to develop some first class backfield material.

Harvard Notes

Leo Daley, varsity tackle last year must pass a Hygiene examination before he can be declared eligible for the election.

Jack Hubbard, a promising end will not report until September 20 owing to a recent bereavement in his family.

The second team coaching staff consists of Coaches Jimmy Rockwell, Mal Greenough, last year's captain; Tom Blake, Dolph Sambrotti, Johnny Donavan and Charlie Hubbard.

Harvard has secured the services of Hons Neadorff to aid Trainer "Eddie" Farrell. With these two trainers Harvard's gridiron squad will be in the best of condition.

Stanley De Lisa Coach [illegible] year's varsity halfback. Jimmy Burke is his chief assistant. Joe Al O'Neil will take care of the [illegible]. Dick Fiske has been chosen as publicity manager

FOURNIER TO QUIT BECAUSE OF RIDING

New York, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—A special dispatch from Pittsburgh to the New York Evening World says that First Baseman Jacques Fournier of the Brooklyn Nationals has announced he will not play another season in a Brooklyn uniform

Fournier spoke with much bitterness. He has a contract for next year at $12,500. Fournier said: "I have been sixteen years in baseball and am accustomed to the fickleness of crowds, but the roasting I have received in Brooklyn has been so savage that I cannot play in a Brooklyn uniform and retain my self-respect. Every vile name has been hurled at me over and over again. Because I made the ordinary run of errors or had not done something which foul-mouthed persons in the stands had expected me to do

"The abuse has been continuous for a long time and has been totally undeserved. I have hit .300 or better most of the time since I came to the Brooklyn club three years ago from St. Louis. I have led the National League in driving in runs.

"In return for my efforts I have been denounced in the coulest of language by the class of fans who have no respect for the women around them, or for themselves and who think that by paying the price of admission they have acquired the right to throw unlimited verbal filth upon a professional baseball player.

"I have become ashamed in Brooklyn of a profession to which I was once proud to be one. My wife long since stopped going to the games in Brooklyn because she could not stand the unmerited attacks upon me, and now I can no longer stand them."

Other members of the Brooklyn squad are known to have taken the abuse by the fans almost as much to heart as has Fournier.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Wilbert Robinson, president of the Brooklyn club, when informed of the star first baseman's determination to quit the club, said: "Fournier got himself in a mess of some description and I am sorry to [illegible] on him for next year. I don't believe he has any intention of quitting the Brooklyn team, despite anything he might say now. He has a good contract and means to be satisfied."

100 Entered for Elks Ring Show

Although the entry list of the opening amateur boxing tournament of Boston Lodge of Elks at the Arena tomorrow night does not close until this evening, George Freeman, chairman of the athletic committee of the Elks' amusement that approximately one hundred entries had been received for the various contests to be staged in athletic events are increased by the momentum gain [illegible] to the date of the competition, the officials in charge of the tourney are confident that there will be nearly 100 individual competitors for the big boxing event of the Elks Winter program.

Due to popular demand a policy of Boston Lodge has met with general favor, a sealed list by the large advance sale and number of reservations which have been received at the Elks' Home, No. 10 Somerset street, and at the Arena box office.

The boxing committee has finally decided to stage competitions in six classes tomorrow night. They will be the 115, 125, 147, 160, and heavyweight classes, all open, and the coops of officials, which has been carefully selected, are anticipating a long and busy evening.

Dempsey to Fight Wills or Nobody

New York, Sept. 15.—Feeling that he has become passe in the two-year interval since he last defended his title Jack Dempsey either will never fight again or will take one last pot shot at Harry Wills for all the money he can get and call it a career. Far from wishing to avoid Wills, the negro is the only man Dempsey will meet, because he has pens to be the only so-called good man he thinks he can beat.

This was the word brought East today by a man well within the confidential circle of the champion's semi-official family.

Lagerblade had a medal score of seventy, which broke the Sandy Burr record formerly held by Jack Stalt and Ralph Thomas, the club professional. Lagerblade was out in thirty-six and back in thirty-four. The card:

Out .....5 5 3 2 4 5 3 5 4—36
In .....3 4 4 3 4 4 4 4 4—34

Johnny Farrell, the brilliant Quaker Ridge professional, was on his way to establish a new record but faded on the fifteenth hole.

Farrell's card:

Out .....5 5 3 5 4 4 4 4 4—38
In .....3 4 4 3 4 4 4 5 4—35

Jack Stalt had a medal round of 72, playing steady golf during the eighteen holes. Barnes was a big disappointment. He was not himself during the entire round. Going out he had to be satisfied with a 42. On the inward round he got a 40.

In the match play the teams were all even going to the third. Johnny Farrell halved the first three holes with Lagerblade and Stalt. On the fourth hole Lagerblade broke the deadlock and put the New England team one up by dropping a 40-foot putt for a birdie three.

Stalt and Farrell halved the next hole and Lagerblade won the sixth putting his team two up. It was on the 15th that Farrell missed a couple of putts and Barnes lost his chance to halve the hole.

recent winning bout with Romero Rojas, has not responded for treatment as quickly as expected.

Goodwin returned from New York this morning where he was present when Solomon was examined by Dr. Fralick, noted bone expert who has treated Harry Wills, Jack Sharkey, Jack Delaney and many other leading ring men.

Dr. Fralick stated that Solomon could not resume training until the latter part of the week. When this decision was made known, Joe Woodman, Solomon's manager, requested that the tussle go back until October 1, so that the King may be physically fit when he enters the ring.

Woodman also called off Solomon's tussle with Tommy Loughran, which was carded as the feature of the Fistic Carnival show in Philadelphia a week from tomorrow night.

When notified that Solomon will not be ready to box until October 1, Jim Maloney let up in his training. The South Boston heavyweight has been working out daily under the direction of Harry Kelley.

Matchmaker Goodwin also announced he has signed Jack Sharkey to meet the winner of the Solomon-Maloney bout. The date of this contest will be around Columbus Day.

Gamblers Poison Widener's Horse

New York, Sept. 15.—What promises to be an explosion in metropolitan racing circles, which may result in the barring of several prominent turfites, is expected within forty-eight hours.

It was learned today that Joseph E. Widener, who succeeded the late August Belmont as leader in the Jockey Club, has had a staff of private detectives at work since his horse, Aitawood, 1 to 4 favorite, was beaten by Sunsvero in a two-horse race at Saratoga.

Mr. Widener was informed that his horse had been poisoned with monoxide gas while awaiting the saddling call in the paddock before the races. The person suspected is a well known turfite and sure-thing player long connected with gambling houses in New York.

A chemist of this city, who was said to know of the plot, was asked by Mr. Widener to go to Saratoga, where he told all he knew to Widener and several other members of

CHICK SUGGS' BACKERS WON $15,000 ON VICTORY

ROSENBERG GO SOUGHT FOR CHICK

New George Dixon Does Not Drink Nor Smoke; Proud of Wife and Children

By JACK CONWAY.

BOSTON gamblers suffered a loss of $15,000 when Chick Suggs, the new George Dixon, defeated Red Chapman, according to a statement made today by David Lumansky of New Bedford, who has been reported for piloting the little boy here up the big-time highway.

Jack Conway

Suggs' followers from Newport, New Bedford, Fall River and the other cities of Bristol county made a clean-up when he beat Chapman," said Lumansky. "The Bostonians evidently don't think there was a man of his weight who could defeat Chapman. They had been reported [illegible] and Mascart and so forth [illegible] unbeatable.

"But they hadn't seen Suggs in action. Suggs was a preliminary boy [illegible] opened at 10 to 8 [illegible] but by the time the main [illegible] the odds were 2 to 1 [illegible]

"Suggs was often picked up [illegible] and put on a boxing bout in Boston.

"Suggs is great [illegible] he comes to the ring as a [illegible] days of George Dixon. He is a legitimate lightweight, capable of making 128 pounds, though he is also able to fight featherweights and light heights when necessary.

"Suggs was obliged to put on weight for the Chapman bout so that he would be heavy enough to pass the Boxing Commission's test. And, at four pounds weight difference allowed in the feather weight class. We knew Chapman couldn't get much below 126 pounds. So it was up to Suggs to get heavy, which he did. He ate considerable ice cream while training and just before weighing in had a full meal.

"Suggs fights best when around 118 pounds. I'll admit he looked good while easily beating Chapman, but he will show 10 stone flats even more ring class when he steps to bat weighing around the bantamweight limit.

Suggs is one of the finest examples of a boxer in the world. He is married and has a wife and two children. He is twenty-four years of age and makes his home in New Bedford. He was born in Providence, but when a youngster came North with his family and settled in Newport. Later he moved to New Bedford.

Intoxicating liquors never have passed Suggs' lips. Neither does he smoke, which he has been one of the best. He is a real family man.

Suggs has earned a great deal of money, as he has campaigned all over the country, defeating all comers, until he has an amazing run of eighty-one straight victories. He has invested his ring earnings in a home, an auto and in second mortgages.

"WHEN I first became manager of Suggs, he was virtually an unknown. I had a vision that Chick Suggs was going to be another George Dixon. For three years I have preached my gospel to boxing fans and promoters. I am gratified to see that I have finally convinced all that Suggs is the great fighter I have claimed he is.

"Suggs is just reaching the top on his form. He will be a great fighter for six to eight years more. He stands forth ready to meet all comers. I don't know of a bantamweight or featherweight in the world whom he cannot defeat.

"Tim Goodwin of the Suffolk club is trying to get Rosenberg, [illegible] a bantamweight king, to box Suggs. I am sure that if this bout [illegible] Suggs will win."

LUMANSKY is an unusual type of manager. He is a business man of New Bedford. He has made a great deal of money in the insurance game. He took a fancy to Suggs and agreed to help the youngster climb the pugilistic ladder.

Before the Chapman bout, Lumansky pointed to a large diamond ring on one of his fingers.

"That's yours if you win," he said to Suggs.

After the bout, Lumansky made good his promise and presented Suggs with the choice gem.

That's something new for a boxing manager to do, too.

Perhaps it was acts such as this which caused Dave to lose favor with our wise young men who pilot the knights of the ring.

Sharkey Is Down to 189

Sports Aid Youth, B. C. Men Told

"Athletics [illegible] [illegible]m fails."

Those words coming as they did from [illegible] member were the cause of quite a bit of surprise to the sporting writers when they did from the lips of Rev. James L. Corrigan, S. J., professor of moral philosophy at College, in a recent lecture.

Naturally, as Father Corrigan's remarks must refer to the college at which he has taught for the past few years, a member of the Boston Evening American sporting staff went out to the Heights. Coach Cavanaugh was drilling the ninety odd Boston College football candidates and afterwards the Eagle mentor talked on the subject.

"Father Corrigan certainly knows what he is talking about. There are many a college athlete who would not be in college today if it wasn't for athletics. He would not want to go to college, unless there was athletics there and he loved the limelight.

"Why, I know two good football players whom I have coached and neither of them would have finished their college course if it was not for the enjoyment that base ball and football offered to them.

Athletics can aid in another way. "I don't know a star fighting player. It was years ago and so as you won't know him, well call him Smith. Smith was one of the best linesmen on the eleven that I had and looked good for All American honors.

"He was majoring in philosophy and the Fall course was in Moral Logic. Smith turned in a blank examination book for his mark and aroused the ire of the professor.

The professor came down to the field that afternoon, with fire in his eyes and calling me aside said:

"Coach Smith can't play any more football until he passes his Minor Logic examination. He has set in a blank book and when a man does that he is no longer a man but a beast and must be taught a lesson.'

At finally appeased the professor and asked him to give Smith a week to pass his exam. He agreed to that as I practically started a few days later.

"Smith," I remarked when the squad was lined up across the field for grass drill, "you're a smart man. You're also a coward. I'll put you in the backfield Saturday."

At least you'll have [illegible]

"The squad [illegible] and Smith got red right to the point [illegible]

"Now, Smith, you're a good logician. What would you do if you were crossing a street and when you were two-thirds of the way across and came down the road [illegible] automobile and on the other [illegible] the way to safety?

"Say, you Wouldn't [illegible] I'd run back and get hit.

He went down [illegible] after practice and as he was crossing the street he saw an auto in the distance and stepped back to [illegible] safety and was clipped a [illegible] several feet. He was dazed and bruised but not seriously hurt.

Still he wanted to be on the safe side so Smith called up the squad physician and told him that he'd be right over.

"Doc, I just got hit by an auto down town, but don't tell that. I flunked Logic and he told me that I didn't have enough reason to avoid a car this afternoon.

A Story That Bares the Soul of a Woman Twice Cheated of the Love She Seeks night and was free at last to breathe the forest ...

Just Once Again

Jerrold, he knew, had thought ... from ... that ... the days of ... would be ... curled up in one of the high bed ... He would run out by a day in the sun ...

But the vision of Elspeth kept on ... the shape of Gerda, with one ... arm like a bar of snow across the tiger's skin of M. Pannet's bedroom. He wondered then at the ... that the hot lover him how ... pressure quickened some fire in ... and left him ... mously super- ... love emotion.

He wanted to steal across the ... and ... look at her just once again. She would never know, no harm would be done. He shrugged his shoulders, turned out the lamp, and climbed into bed.

But ... to sleep. He could not; ... sleep for the thought of her ... so near him. He dreamed odd, untidy dreams that might have been either sleep or waking. He saw her white as a lily, drifting ... in ... folding and reappearing, laughing at him.

"Jerry ..."

Some one spoke to him in a dream. A hand touched his. He knew that the voice was not a dream voice, but the real voice of ... with its low-pitched caress and ... sparkle.

He sat up in bed.

She was sitting beside him. In ... faint luminous light of the ... she had the look of a ghost.

"What is the ... " he asked ... "Why aren't you in bed? ... "

She smiled at him. "I couldn't ... sleep—because I'd told you a lie, Jerry."

"A lie? My dear, sit down on the bed. You'll hurt yourself."

She seated herself, her legs tucked beneath her.

"It never fell from my horse," she said ... at least not seriously. I faked that ..."

"What?" he interrupted.

He ... her ... "I wanted—to ... the night here," she replied ... "Jerry!" His voice was the voice of a ... shocked boy.

Why that disgust, Jerrold? Isn't ... rather humiliating for me to have ... driven to this hunt resort? You must take me now, you know. Poor Jerrold! It wouldn't matter now if we ... virtuously to our room. The harm is done in the eyes of the world—if any harm there is. So you needn't be afraid, my dear."

But—Your Husband

He sprang from his bed and laid a hand roughly on her shoulder. "You must go back to your own room, Gerda."

There was a little lash of scorn ... her ... as she answered him.

Don't you realize how ... I'm ... with ... that ... I ... ?"

"But your husband ..."

"I envy ... I'll be ever ... ze." Her tone was ... less ... It was ... much ... ght ... of ... ing ... that ... had led us ... oldest ... friends ... room ..."

"Oh, don't, please," Jerrold begged.

She stretched her ... in ... ngia before him ... moved across the ... room ... and ... and he could see her head ... the tenuous ... she ... She turned her ... to ... and ... and ... and shoulders ... a shaft of ... "Then, suddenly ... her deception ... Jerrold ... He was furious with her ... trick she had played. He dragged his eyes from the ... ness and seized her ... wrist.

"Come along ... Get ... "Out of this, Gerda. ... fly, I tell you ..."

Though she leaned her weight to resist him, he swung open the door and hustled her across the shadowy landing. Her eyes, as he closed the door of her own room upon her, were hurt and frightened ... the eyes of a child who does not understand why she has been punished.

Once back in his room he closed the door and locked it. Then, throwing himself on his bed, he lay for an hour in such agony of mind as he had never known, clinging to the tumbled sheets to keep him self there.

He could not say what held him to that decision, whether the fear of venturing too far along paths of peril or the thought of Tommy Macklyn was trusted but did not understand why, whatever his lack of appreciation, was nevertheless her husband.

He left Gerda still asleep at The Inn of Sunrise and for her a note with Monsieur Pannet, telling her it was essential he be at the Stepany strasse during the morning; he would send a car for her as soon as he got back; she must not worry or think him unkind; he would call on her that evening and explain.

All the way back to Varvasch he was a prey to the turmoil of his thoughts, to regret and a great thankfulness, to wonder at the force of Gerda's obsession.

He could not forget the look she had thrown him, through the narrowing track of door, a pitiful look as though she had been struck in the face and were still dazed from the blow. He realized now the hurt he had done her by his refusal to take what she offered.

"Want you imagine what it's like to love me?" she had asked him with almost a cry in her voice. By refusing to visualise the picture he long painted for him he had done her a moral injury. She would think he had scorned her, she would feel her pride shaken by the failure to win him.

Little by little she had subdued that pride of hers during the weeks since they first met, acquiescing to one surrender of it after another. She had begged him to see her that last night in London, she had followed him to Varvasch, she had been forced to practise a trick to win him—and failed. Even he could understand the greatness of that failure, the bitterness of her awaking to find him gone.

Led on by the sip of honey he has tasted, Jerrold prides himself as a conqueror. Little does he know of the ways of a woman. And little does either know of what is before them in the following misplacements! It's worth your time to read it.

AN EXTREMELY smart evening gown in dull yellow velvet is sketched at the left. The charming little godets placed round the lower part of the frock are stitched down at their sides. This decoration is only at the front. The square cut neck is very much worn for evening frocks just now.

A coat to match the above described frock is sketched at the right. It is in velvet and of the same dull shade of yellow. The apron pieces at each side are held to the coat by bands of embroidery in topaz colored beads over a gold lame ground. Leopard skin makes an attractive fur to go with the whole ensemble. The lining to this model is composed of yellow crepe de chine.

Who Occupies a Unique Position in the Writing World as an Authority On Problems of Love

"THE old order changeth, yield ing place to new," wrote Tennyson. And his words express a universal law of human affairs.

I suppose the parent generation since the cave man era, has insisted, "Our old fried ways are best. These new ideas are scandalous."

Meantime, radical youth enthusiastically adopts the new ideas, which in time become a safe tried customs of another generation. However, in past centuries youthful rebellion was a very weighty sound reason. For naturally girls wish to do as others do, most of her young folks sociable sympathetic mo That's the natural instinctive call to seek a mate through social activity and enlarged circles of acquaintances.

Free Action

But today youth has free speech and pretty much free action. The result is in many households endless battles of words between parents and children.

In one case lately a father was arrested and brought into court because of the loud and emphatic language he used in denouncing daughter's flapperish ways.

"Look at her," he exclaimed to the judge. Then addressing his seventeen year-old daughter: "Take off your hat and show the judge what you've done to your hair."

His daughter obediently removed her hat, disclosing a not unusual curly bobbed head.

"It takes her hours every day to curl it that way," he shouted. "And look at her skirts—up to her knees. She has dozens of boy friends and insists on staying out nights with them until after midnight. I'm ashamed to call her my daughter."

You shudder to think of the mental atmosphere of that home: the constant wrangling and obstinate stubbornness on both sides. Just a little friendly sympathy with the other's point of view and willingness to compromise on the part of parents and daughter would heal wounds and keep everybody content and happy.

Nor is domestic unrest always due to flapper daughters.

I got to talking with a middle-aged farmer during a recent holiday in the country.

"My boy is sure to come to a bad end," sighed Uncle Joshua. "He's got a car and every evening he goes off driving. Some nights he doesn't reach home until three or four o'clock. He'll get killed, or get careening round in that fli

"He is content to work the fa as I was when I was young? he, John wants excitement. So got work in the village driving ice truck. Here he comes now."

And despite his complaints Uncle Joshua's face lighted with parental pride as he pointed out young man who whizzed by on the driver's seat of a large red truck.

Not Personal

Those domestic disagreements are not personal but are the ag ong conflict of old safe ideas and new ideas which may prove either better or worse than the old safe more dangerous ways of foolish.

Every-one is doing it on the ... special reason advanced for taking up a new fad. And this is ... very weighty sound reason. For naturally girls wish to do as others do, most of her young folks sociable sympathetic mo That's the natural instinctive call to seek a mate through social activity and enlarged circles of acquaintances.

He sure the patience and sympathy you acquire in working for harmony at home will endear you to the One Man on earth whose sweetness and charm will keep your own home running smoothly later on, when you are a loved wife and mother.

CORRECT MANNERS

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

I am staying at the seashore. I expect my fiance to visit me. Is it proper for me to greet him at the station with a kiss? A girl friend contends it is improper to kiss a man in public at any time until you are married.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ON July 19, the people of the State of California hanged three boys. These boys had shot a policeman during the course of a bank robbery.

They were duly arrested, tried and on the tenth of July three young, healthy, strong male bodies were hung by the neck, and then returned to earth.

This was the only solution as yet found for the murder problem by an educated white community in the year of our Lord, 1925.

In the following week a letter appeared in a local paper deriding the newspapers which did not approve of this solution.

"What consolation do such papers hold out to children and dependents who were deprived of their protector and provider by cold blooded assassins? Their pity is all for the perverts and they would give them free board and room at the expense of the State during the rest of their days—pension them as if they were."

PRACTICAL SOLUTION

It is not the object of this article to discuss the sentimental aspects of capital punishment. IF JUSTICE CANNOT BE ESTABLISHED ON A FIRMER BASIS THAN THAT OF SENTIMENTALITY IT IS USELESS.

The advocates of capital punishment claim it is a practical solution—the best arrangement for all concerned. We will therefore discuss it from that angle. Is capital punishment a sensible scheme? It is a practical arrangement? Does it pay?

IS IT GOOD ECONOMICS?

Let's see.

We hung Lewis Ferry. He was nineteen. He was exceptionally strong and healthy. He left, TO OUR CARE, a middle-aged frail mother, absolutely penniless.

All her life Mrs. Ferry has struggled with poverty. Her husband died when her three sons were small. She was unable to care for them. The State does not concern itself greatly with the little sons of penniless widows. But when those sons, tainted by the corruption into which they have been thrown, endanger the society which ignored their need the law gathers them in—puts them behind bars—hangs them by the neck until dead.

This it did to the three sons of Mrs. Ferry. Two of them are now behind bars. The third we—junked.

MRS. FERRY IS ON OUR HANDS TODAY.

We hung Edmund Montijo. He was nineteen. Although sub-normal in mental development, he was strong and able to work. He left TO OUR CARE, an aged father and mother.

We hung Tom Bailey. He was twenty-two. His nerves were shattered by dope, but under proper care he could have been cured and made a source of revenue. He left, TO OUR CARE, an old, a very frail, mother.

We hung these three boys because they killed a policeman who tried to arrest them. The death of that policeman left two old people needing care.

THERE ARE SIX PEOPLE ROBBED OF THEIR RIGHTFUL SUPPORT.

Heavy Bill For Public

That's a heavy bill for the community to face. If you have tried to care for one frail, aging person you will appreciate the labor, worry and expense that will arise from that situation.

Yet, even so, capital punishment might still be good economics if these executions worked toward some profitable end. But do they?

The writer evidently believes that the abolition of capital punishment would deprive "the children and dependents" of the murdered "of consolation." That sounds feasible. Such children and dependents would surely claim our first concern. If we can insure "consolation" for such it should be done. But—HOW DO THESE THREE DEATHS INSURE CONSOLATION FOR THE DEPENDENTS OF THAT POLICEMAN?

If they have blood just it may sate it. But is civilization to go on record as killing men to sate blood lust? Is THAT our idea of "consolation?"

Other than that, what has been served by this triple execution? How has it fortified the lives of these six dependents? Has it protected us against further drain and waste?

THESE THREE BOYS MIGHT HAVE BEEN PUT TO PROFITABLE LABOR FOR THE REST OF THEIR LIVES. THE PROCEEDS OF THAT LABOR WOULD HAVE PAID ALL THEIR EXPENSES AND AMPLY SUPPORTED THOSE SIX DEPENDENTS.

As it is, we must care for six helpless citizens for some years to come.

And Lewis Ferry, Edmund Montijo and Tom Bailey are a rotting crop, ploughed under by the cruel blade of hate and ignorance.

FOXY GRANDPA'S BEDTIME STORY

NO WONDER A SNAIL MOVES SLOWLY

By Foxy Grandpa

"I'VE found a pretty shell, Foxy Grandpa," cried Bobby one morning coming in from the garden.

"Let me see it, Bobby," said I. "Here it is, Foxy Grandpa, but I can't see inside of it."

I took the little shell in my hand and examined it.

"No wonder you can't see in it, "It's owner has his front door locked," I laughed.

"What do you mean—its owner?" asked Bobby wrinkling up his little forehead in a dozen wrinkles.

"Better put him out in the garden," I said. "You know it would be a pretty trying thing if someone lifted up your house and carried you off several miles and turned your house all over examining your front door and your roof."

"Is the snail in there, Foxy Grandpa?" asked the boy.

"He certainly is," I declared. "Put him out on the walk where John has been squirting the hose and I'll wager you'll see him make tracks."

"Tracks for home?" asked Bobby.

"He is home," I chuckled. "That little fellow carries his own house on his back."

"He certainly has a real portable house, hasn't he, Foxy Grandpa?" said Bobby, walking out the front door with the snail held carefully in his hand.

I followed the boy and when we reached the pavement where it was quite damp, Bobby put the snail down and then asked:

"Why did you tell me to put him down where the pavement is wet, Foxy Grandpa?"

"I'll tell you, and if he will start walking, I'll show you," I answered.

We waited a moment and sure enough out of the shell came the little head with the four horns.

"What are those black specks on those two horns, Foxy Grandpa?" Bobby questioned, dropping down on his knees.

"Those little specks are his eyes,' I explained.

"Oh," said Bobby. "They are such little things I don't see how he can see anything."

Then the snail started to creep along.

Slowly and quietly the little thing moved along and Bobby leaned down very close to the ground to see how he did it.

"I don't see any feet, Foxy Grandpa. That snail is wiggling along like a worm," announced Bobby, raising up on one knee and looking into my face.

"He does move like a worm," I said. "But the part of the body on which he moves is called his foot. He slides along on it, rather than walks. And that is why I told you to put him down on the pavement where the water had made it slippery—because a snail cannot move on a perfectly dry surface."

"But suppose he wanted to go out walking and there was no dampness on the ground?" asked Bobby.

"Then he makes his own slide," I smiled, "by putting forth that slime which you often see in the morning."

"That little silver streak which is sometimes on the earth?"

"Exactly," I replied.

"But does he always have to do that?" persisted Bobby.

"He does," I answered. "When the weather is very dry, he just goes into his house and takes a long nap until the rains come.

"Well," announced Bobby, "if I only had one foot and it took me so long to go a short distance, I don't think I would go out for a walk very often."

WORDS VS. ACTIONS

By Lucy Lowell

WHAT you do for folks is important. But it is how you do, what you do, that counts most!

My little friend who signs herself "Sunshine" has written me what she thinks about doing what you do for folks in the right way:

"Dear Miss Lowell:

"We had quite a discussion in my office. We were talking about associating with those supposed to be inferior—those poor victims of misfortune, whose reputations are not what they should be. One girl said she would ask such a person to her home, but would refuse to be seen walking with her, or him.

"But I feel that if I were interested in the person I would not be ashamed to be seen with her or him in public. We never know how unjustly a reputation has been taken away. A girl whom I knew years ago once said to me: 'Folks around here don't think I'm good, but how can I be better unless some of the better ones associate with me? When someone I can look up to is kind to me, I'll try to be worthy of the recognition, but as things are I only feel hopeless.'

"SUNSHINE."

Do you think "Sunshine" is right? Personally I think it would be awfully hard to convince anyone you were ashamed to be seen with that you cared much about her—or his—welfare. Your gift of advice and encouragement, without anything of the giver, would be quite bare and futile, wouldn't it?

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS--

By Helen Rowland.

Helen Rowland

HEAR now, the Litany of the Summer Sheik, which he chanteth hopefully.

O Lord, guide now my steps in the way of cautiousness and the paths of safety, that my feet may not stumble.

Stay my tongue from uttering promises, and keep my hands from the pen of the foolish. For this is the season when strong men fall and the snares of women encompass them.

Let not mine eyes be deceived by false complexions and permanent waves, nor tempted by too frank bathing suits, lest I fall in love with a beautiful ankle and a dimpled knee and awaken to find myself married to the whole girl! For that is the fate of the lobster!

Stay me from making myself ridiculous in the pursuit of flappers and subdebs.

Deliver me from the bold and innocent wiles of the baby-vamp and from the subtle persuasions of widows. For, between them, an eligible man is as one that dodgeth a flivver only to fall before a truck.

Keep me away from the temptations of beach parties and let me not be persuaded to park in the moonlight with any woman under forty. For a man is not responsible for that which he promiseth, when he is dizzy with wine or with moonlight.

Oh, cover my heart with non-conductors, and anaesthetize my senses, but leave my head clear and steady, that I may live through another year of single blessedness. Yea, make me immune!

For verily, verily, eternal vigilance is the price of bachelorhood!

The following information is contained in a letter from Mr. S. Davies Warfield, President of Seaboard Air Line Railway Company:

THE COMPANY

The Seaboard Air Line Railway System directly operates 3,789 miles of railroad (exclusive of 441 miles of subsidiary companies), extending from Richmond, Virginia, through the South Atlantic states. The territory traversed is one of the most productive sections of the South, including the great citrus fruit-bearing, vegetable, cotton and tobacco growing districts and also many important manufacturing sections. The strength of the Seaboard's position is indicated by the fact that the percentage of miscellaneous freight to total traffic is greater than that of any important competing railroad of the South.

The lines of the Seaboard System reach substantially all the important cities of the South Atlantic seaboard and extend to Tampa, Fla., on the Gulf and to other Florida west coast points, to West Palm Beach (Palm Beach), Fla., on the east coast, to Norfolk and all important South Atlantic ports south of Norfolk, and also to Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery, Ala., and Birmingham, Ala. The Seaboard System reaches Washington, D. C., over the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad, in which it has an interest.

The Seaboard System enjoys superior competitive advantages as the short line between Richmond and Florida. By the recent extension of its main line to West Palm Beach it reaches the only railway system operating trains over its own rails from Richmond to points on the lower east coast of Florida. It is proposed that this line be extended to Miami and beyond and that on the west coast an extension be constructed to Fort Myers, Punta Rassa and other South Florida points. These proposed extensions will reach some of the most rapidly developing sections of Florida. The Seaboard System has the only direct line across the peninsula of Florida connecting the two coasts.

SECURITY

The First and Consolidated Mortgage Bonds are a direct obligation of Seaboard Air Line Railway Company and are secured by direct first mortgage lien on approximately 442 miles of railroad, including the through low-grade main line of 258 miles from Hamlet, North Carolina, to Savannah, Georgia, via Charleston, South Carolina. They are further secured by pledge of certain securities, including $48,879,000 Refunding Mortgage Bonds out of a total of $68,229,000 issued.

The effect of covenants made by the company is that no additional bonds, (other than First and Consolidated Mortgage bonds) secured by any existing mortgage lien on any of the company's property now directly owned may be issued except additional Refunding Mortgage bonds, which by the provisions of the First and Consolidated Mortgage are required to be pledged thereunder. As such additional Refunding Mortgage bonds shall be issued and pledged under the First and Consolidated Mortgage, holders of First and Consolidated Mortgage bonds will acquire an increased interest in the security afforded by the Refunding Mortgage.

EARNINGS

Income applicable to interest, and other comparable figures, for the two years ended December 31, 1924, have been as follows:

Year Ended Dec. 31	Railway Operating Revenues	Railway Operating Expenses	Total Income Applicable to Interest	Fixed Interest Charges
1923	$52,249,110	$40,342,259	$8,367,625	$6,095,245
1924	53,384,173	41,387,634	9,933,490	6,601,413

Gross operating revenues for the seven months ended July 31, 1925, were over 10.6% greater and net railway operating income was 9.4% greater, than for the corresponding period of 1924. The officials of the company estimate that after the first year of full operation of the additional Florida lines, of which 264 miles are now in operation and 204 miles proposed to be built, the annual gross operating revenues of the system will be increased by approximately $10,000,000 and the net operating revenues by approximately $4,500,000.

FINANCE

By B. C. FORBES

Are our railroad managers able? Are they as able as men who have become leaders in the motor truck and motor bus field? Will they prove themselves able enough to cope successfully with the transportation revolution now under way? Or will holders of railway securities suffer through failure of railway managers to readjust their operations to meet changing conditions satisfactorily and profitably?

Why have our railroads lost much passenger traffic and, more recently, freight traffic, to operators of motor buses and motor trucks?

Briefly, because others were quicker than our railroad managers to grasp the opportunities created by the advent of improved motor transportation facilities.

To the outsider, it would seem inevitable that railroads and railroad securities will suffer if greater and greater inroads are made by motor competitors without any serious, comprehensive, scientific effort by railroads to entrench themselves in this new field of transportation.

The fact is that railway executives are, on the whole, older men than industrial executives. These older men knew no motor transportation in their creative days. They naturally concerned themselves solely with railroads in transportation. And there are indications that many of them have become too fixed in their ways to recast their mental attitude towards transportation.

On the other hand, more enterprising, more plastic brains have entered the motor transportation field in opposition to the railroads. These modern entrepreneurs are not hampered by archaic traditions, are not wedded to red tape, are not jogging along in ruts. They are prepared to change their plans and processes promptly when changed conditions so demand.

* * *

The Boston & Maine, spurred by necessity, recently started a store-door delivery service between Boston and Lowell and Lawrence. The Boston & Worcester Street Railway Co., which for eighteen months had been operating a store-door delivery service in certain towns, last June announced a very extensive addition to the territory to be served.

* * *

But unless far more is done, and done speedily, to transform railroad companies into up-to-date transportation companies, railway stockholders are bound to suffer. Door-to-door delivery, such as prevails in British and trucking services, are steps in the right direction.

AMERICAN CAR MAY CONTROL BRILL CO.

According to information in financial district, plans are well advanced toward the passing of control of the J. G. Brill Company. The plan, as reported, is for the organization of a new company to take over the Brill company, the Hall-Scott Engine Company and the Fageol Motors Company, of Ohio. Democracy DOES COUNT

Young Coolidge Proves That There's a Great Difference Between a Republic and a Monarchy

This is John Coolidge, son of the President, working as a soldier. He is a corporal; his father, Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy.

In future ages the childish belief of the 1925 American citizen that he lives in a real democracy will seem amusing.

Ours is a little more of a democracy than the old commercial oligarchy in Venice, when the Doges ruled in the interest of their ships and their money scattered on distant seas.

We have a republican FORM of government, with a plutocratic mainspring, and are as far from REAL democracy as Peter the Great of Russia was from Bolshevism.

And our justice isn't democratic. Ask any able lawyer in the United States this question:

IF A POOR MAN HAS A JUST CLAIM FOR $1,000 AGAINST A RICH MAN, COULD HE POSSIBLY BRING A SUIT AGAINST HIM, FIGHTING THE RICH MAN THROUGH THE VARIOUS COURTS AND VARIOUS DELAYS WITHOUT SPENDING MORE THAN $1,000?

The honest lawyer will tell you, "Of course not. The best thing for a man with a claim for $1,000 against the rich man, if the rich man decides to fight, is for the poor man to FORGET about his claim and think of something else. He will break his pocketbook and his heart, too, if he tries that kind of a game in our courts of justice."

We have and do many things that are not democratic. We tax the people to make railroads pay a profit. We even tax the people enough to make them pay on thousands of millions of watered stock.

But we don't tax the people to help farmers run their farms at a profit. And we don't tax the people to prevent LITTLE business men from going into bankruptcy.

The Prince of Wales, when a mere boy, in magnificent uniform, high rank, many medals, none of them earned.

Nevertheless, there are really democratic, hopeful signs, and this picture is one. It shows the son of the President going to camp to learn soldiering. He goes there the same as any other American boy.

Two other pictures of young soldiers here tell another story.

If young John Coolidge had been the son of the King of England he could have been a COLONEL, in his childhood. If he had been the son of the former Kaiser of Germany, he could have been made a colonel almost when a baby.

At least in this country we GO THROUGH SOME OF THE FORMS of democracy. And after men have PRETENDED a thing for a certain length of time they finally do it.

Once upon a time all human beings were cannibals.

Beat It!

By Harry Murphy

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THOUSANDS of women all over the country are now taking out Spinster Insurance. They want to lead a life of single blessedness and get paid for it besides.

OTHER women get married and have to live for nothing.

THIS insurance is so easy to get if you remain single that a husband has become a luxury.

AND no man is worth ten thousand dollars, even if he's got a mouth full of gold teeth.

OF course it's nice to have a husband if he's good to you, but if you've got a lot of insurance money you can be good to yourself.

IT isn't necessary to have a man around the house. For seven dollars, an old maid can get a parrot to do all the swearing.

AND if the parrot doesn't know how to swear, you can take him out to the golf links for some lessons.

YEARS ago, girls used to fear that they'd grow up to be old maids; now they're afraid they won't.

THEY may worship a man, but they also have to be true to their insurance.

THE insurance companies try to get out of paying the policies by sending men around to propose to the old maids.

BUT they'd lose just as much money this way, because the fellows who do the proposing also take out insurance.

THEY want to be protected in case the old maids should accept them.

WHEN a man gets married it's usually for love and not to do the insurance company a favor.

IT'S pretty nice, though, to be paid two hundred dollars a month just for making love.

BUT those are about the only courtships where you can come out ahead.

ONE fellow had to make love to three hundred women in four days. He's been so busy that he hasn't had time to propose to his own girl.

HIS work keeps him away so much that she'll probably grow up to be an old maid.

SHE finally took out an insurance policy and now he calls to see her on the company's time.

MARRIAGE is a costly experience and for every thousand women who take out old-maid insurance, ten hundred bachelors breathe easier.

HOW MUCH DOES YOUR READING AFFECT YOUR ACTIONS?

The books you read are shaping your life more than you think.

After reading a certain kind of book, did you find that others of a less sensational character did not interest you?

Gratifying your desire for exciting literature leads you away from the wholesome reading you once enjoyed.

When you were a child you spent many happy hours with books which had a decided influence that affects you yet, at times.

You were inspired to good deeds, to uphold high principles, to be kinder and more considerate as you tried to emulate the characters you liked.

Now flashy magazines, risque anecdotes and low-toned stories are your time fillers—for it is excitement of a lurid nature you crave.

Curiosity whets your appetite for tales of the underworld.

And there are plenty of writers to encourage this longing.

But your own good sense should make you realize that you do not feel any better after your mind is saturated with this filth.

When you lose refined taste you grow coarser and you show it.

THE FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters Must Not Contain More Than Two Hundred Words. No Anonymous Communications Will Be Considered

Where Taxes Tumble

To the Friend of the People:

Somerville has in the past four years, annually decreased its tax rates. This is largely due to the vigilance of our mayor, John M. Webster. He is early and late looking after the best interests of the city and keeping tabs on building matters of important interest to the welfare of the city. Being an engineer he has given of his experience in this particular.

When mayors watch carefully the best interests of cities, taxes seem to take a tumble.

GEORGE B. WHITTAKER.
Somerville.

Citizens' Associations

To the Friend of the People:

The continual activity of the West Roxbury Citizens' Association confirms my belief that such organizations keep up the best interests of the community. Politicians have to weigh their deliberations at times. They know that they cannot afford to dodge the issues. The South Boston Citizens' Association, with a long and honorable history, is another of these local organizations booming the community spirit. There are others, but these two are notable for advanced methods in getting improvements and stopping irregularities.

PETER A. KNOWLTON.
West Roxbury.

Stranded Boys Aided

To the Friend of the People:

The Home for Stranded Boys, giving lodging and food to lads who have wandered into this city looking for employment and without friends, will soon secure new quarters on Cambridge street, after being closed during a part of the Summer. This home gives temporary relief, cheering them up, watching them until they get on their feet and making preparations to return them to their parents in the country village, in case this is desirable. More boys are found wandering into Boston, boys of a tender age, than ever before and this is one of the efforts to meet their special appeals.

MISS AMELIA McKENZIE.
No. 133 Cambridge st., Boston.

Regiment of Amazons

To the Friend of the People:

A young woman is going to teach the members of the 71st Regiment, National Guard, New York, how to fence, Miss Dorothy Lee of Illinois, 20 years old, has this task. Why not have a regiment composed of young women like the Amazons of old, and have them drill with every National Guard division in every State? This would get the men out more frequently than the modest pay which they are now receiving. I understand from Colonel Learnard, in charge of the National Guard Divisions in New England, that it is difficult to get National Guardsmen to the regular drills.

ROBERT T. BURRILL.
Manchester, N. H.

Faneuil Hall Visitors

To the Friend of the People:

Over 1,600 persons in twenty days have visited Faneuil Hall. These, according to the visitors' book, come from nearly every State of the Union.

Many of the names represent people who have formerly lived in the East.

Probably there is no building in Boston that attracts more people. A sign on Washington street, fronting Adams square, directing strangers, would be a help.

MRS. J. C. TAYLOR.
Hinsdale, Berkshire Co., Mass.

More Help Needed

To the Friend of the People:

Put more men to answer questions in the information booth at the South Station. There's often a long line there wondering when some simple information about train service may be had. This is specially hard on women with children. Quick service in this respect is efficient service.

DR. THOMAS B. HALL.
New York City.

Ways of the Mosquito

To the Friend of the People:

Mosquitoes have been so thick down on the Cape this Summer in certain sections that I bought a book on the insect and begun to study their habits. They tell me there are 1,000 different species and three of them get their living by preying on human beings. The male mosquito is a vegetarian and never bites a person. The female leaves malaria in its bite.

I could not find any explanation for this in the book, but I would be grateful to any who can tell me what causes the female to be so much more bloodthirsty.

R. P. STEPHENSON.
Highland Park, Cape Cod.

DEFENDERS OF FAITH ARE MANY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MR. BRYAN died in the midst of faithfully defending the faith that was in him.

It was a splendid struggle, but useless.

He was one of a long line of those who have thought it was up to them to defend the faith.

From the days of Constantine down to the present time there have not been lacking kings, warriors and generals who have thought it incumbent upon them to defend the faith.

There were equally those who enjoyed attacking the faith. There have been Nietzsches, Spinozas, Tom Paines and Ingersolls aplenty.

We make bold to believe, however, that the faith has been destroyed by none of them.

It has been unhindered by the attacks made upon it and equally so by the attempts to defend it.

The trouble is that the faith is a hidden thing, dwelling in the minds of the commons. It is like a lump of leaven growing secretly. It is not helped by those who take the sword in hand to fight for it. It is not hindered by those who take up arrows against it.

It goes right along, pari passu with the enlargement of men's minds and experience.

So far from being opposed to science it makes use of all the science that has been discovered, feeds upon it, and adapts it to its own uses.

It is here simply because mankind is the same now as it always has been. We are here but a little while and we need some notion in our minds as to the future state. Whether this notion be correct or not, man may dispute about. But that there is a notion and that it is ingrained in humanity as a primordial instinct no one can deny. Its growth is like the great tree Ygdrasil, of Norse Mythology, which had its roots in the past while its branches waved in the future. It is a thing of growth and expands with the expansion of men's minds and hearts. It is not to be hindered by those who pit their puny strength against it; neither is it to be frightened by those who take up weapons of defence.

About all we can do with the truth is to hunt for it, believe it, and live it. Arguing about it does no good one way or the other.

No man was ever convinced by argument. The only thing that convinces people that you have the right kind of faith is that you have the right kind of life; that is, the life that demonstrates to them that you are useful to yourself and to your fellow citizens.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

OH, do not clasp too closely pleasures made to pass away! Tomorrow's joys will be as sweet as those most prized today, tomorrow's tasks will be as good, tomorrow's hopes as high, and just such depths of cloudless blue will mark tomorrow's sky. For all this ceaseless round of change was ever meant to be, the same, yet not the same, like waves upon the boundless sea. These scenes are fair, but they give place to others fairer yet, and it is well to leave the past without too much regret. To welcome gladly all that comes of happiness and cheer, and yet to hold no hour of life too highly or too dear. This is the part that wisdom plays—to know from day to day man passes and the things he loves must also pass away.

Democracy DOES COUNT

Women, influencing children, gradually created the idea that cannibalism was horrible and even starvation would be better.

But probably our ancestors, of a few thousand years ago, all of them cannibals, PRETEND to give up cannibalism long before they really did give it up.

We in this country PRETENDED to give up plutocracy and aristocracy and rule by favoritism before we really do give it up. But IN THE LONG RUN, BY PRETENDING, WE HYPNOTIZE OURSELVES. And we shall end by being democratic and living under a truly republican government.

Education will do it even more than PRETENDING.

The Kaiser's oldest son as a lad, with all his military finery. Contrast him with the Prince of Wales and President Coolidge's son.

Education does two things. It enables the little man to control the big man by the power of thought.

And real education, developing a real brain, in the man of extra power makes him realize that the stupid uniform of a Kaiser, or the dull privileges of the rich, are not worth having, and that the only things worth while are DECENT CONDUCT, USEFUL SERVICE TO THE HUMAN RACE.
